Ralph Smith Died a Horrible Death, Comrades Power-

A HEAVY FALL OF EARTH

Covered Him Almost Completely
While He Was Engaged In His Work.

HE DISREGARDED A WARNING

And His Life Was the Forfeit—Popular Young Laborer Lately Employed on the Bell Telephone Company's Excavation Work.

Death in an awful form resulted this morning to Ralph Smith, employed as a laborer by the Bell Telephone company, who was assisting in digging the trenches about the city for the new conduit system which has been in course of construction for several weeks. This is the first accident of any serious nature that has happened during the progress of the work, but it was a most terrible one.

Smith was engaged with others of his gang in digging in a trench in the alley between Fourth and Fifth streets and just at the rear of the First National bank building. He had been at work a little more than an hour and at about 8:10 o'clock was undertaking to remove some timbers and change the braces in a section of the ditch a few yards back of where he had been working.

It was noticed at the time that the bank was slightly giving way and it was to prevent a cave-in that it was desired to have the braces readjusted. Smith started in to get a jack and place it. The foreman, George Crump, warned him that he had better not do so. But he said he could do it, and jumped into the trench.

He had scarcely got there when he saw the bank on the lower side of the trench begin to slide toward him. He made an effort to climb to the top of the ground and had drawn himself partly up when the bank toppled over.

All possible chances of the man's escape were immediately cut off owing to the fact that a frozen crust about a foot in thickness, several feet in length and of immense weight crushed him just below the shoulders, holding him powerless to move while he was also unable to breathe.

Loose dirt which had been on top of the hard crust rolled down over the imperiled man's head, but before his strength had left him he had succeeded in shaking the greater part of it off. The foreman was standing close by at the time of the accident and shouting to the other men at work in the ditch, he ran to Smith's assistance.

Not being able to utter a sound the doomed man could do or say nothing to aid in his rescue, but in less than a minute a half dozen others were at work with shovels and soon had the loose earth removed down to the heavy crust. It was then discovered that this was what was choking the man's life out, and picks and crowbars were set to work in an effort to dislodge the huge chunk, which was almost as hard and heavy as solid rock.

Physicians and the ambulance were sent for and the rescuers worked with all their might. The task was extremely difficult, and as the man was pinned up against the north side of the trench with the immense weight leaning against his body in a slanting position, the men with the bars and picks had to work in front of him in a handicapped manner so as to not force the weight tighter against his then crushed form.

It required more than half an hour's hard work to remove the big crust and before any further effort was made to extricate the man, Drs. Hamilton and Hobbs took him in charge in the hope of reviving him. Smith, however, was black in the face by this time and water and froth were issuing from his mouth and nostrils. Patrolman Woods assisted the doctors and for almost 15 minutes they worked with the patient, trying to induce respiration. Their efforts were in vain, however, and after pronouncing life extinct the body was removed from the death-dealing pit and carried to the ambulance, being then removed to Burns & McQuilkin's undertaking rooms.

The expression on Smith's face was terrible to look upon and many of the excited people who rushed up to where he was imprisoned were horrified on seeing him. During the first few minutes following the accident the man made several convulsive gasps, indicating that he was struggling to death, though it is believed that his suffering was not so intense as would ordinarily be presumed for the reason that his chest was crushed, which would have a tendency to make him partially insensible to pain or strangulation.

Smith was a native of West Virginia, his parents living in a small town named Duncan, about 14 miles from Ravenwood. His father and mother, with some brothers and sisters, are living. He was unmarried and 24 years of age. The unfortunate man went to work for the Bell company last Monday. He was well liked by his fellow workmen and was sober and industrious. A message conveying the news of his death was sent this morning and the remains will be sent home for burial.

The man was crushed inwardly, showing no external marks. His relatives have not yet been heard from. One of Smith's associates says the young man was well fixed financially, having $3,000 in bank.

FROM DISTANT JAPAN

COMES A VISITOR TO STUDY OUR POTTERIES.

The Oriental Much Surprised By Yankee Methods of Making Crochery.

H. Yatsumura, a pottery manufacturer of Nagoya, Japan, came to the city yesterday from the east and was today the guest of President A. S. Hughes, of the Brotherhood.

The gentleman has been in this country for almost a year and during that time has made a thorough investigation of the methods employed by the Yankee in the manufacture of crochery ware.

He was connected with the delegation in charge of the Japanese display of pottery at the Pan-American and spent a greater portion of his time in Buffalo during the exposition.

In February of the present year President Hughes met him at the Barlow hotel at Trenton and since then they have been in constant communication. Mr. Hughes is greatly impressed with the persistence and energy displayed by the little Jap in his search for data and general information concerning modern methods in pottery manufacture, and is disposed to render him whatever assistance he can.

This forenoon was spent in visiting several points of interest about the city. The most interesting institution and the one which gave the foreigner more concern than any other was the city water works. The reservoir was visited and the Jap expressed astonishment that any one could make crochery with the water so dirty.

Mr. Yatsumura is a very interesting character and displays all the enterprising qualities characteristic of his race. He will go to Cincinnati on Monday; from there to Chicago, and expects to sail from Seattle for home on December 17.

Jury's Decision in the Suit Over Le-

Estate.

Lisbon, December 7.—(Special)—The jury, after being out nearly all night, this morning returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the case of Underwood versus Huston, involving the validity of Letitia Myers' will. A new trial will be asked and the case will probably go to circuit court.

Letitia Myers was employed as a domestic by Solomon Huston and left her money to him. It was claimed she was mentally incapable of making a will. The case had been on trial since Tuesday.

A BUSY PERIOD FOR THE POTTERS

Unusual Activity Prevails at All the Local Plants Just at Present.

MANUFACTURERS' MEETING

At Pittsburg Next Week Will Be an Important One—Every Branch of Operatives Here Soon to Be Organized.

The week ending with today has been one of the busiest in the history of the pottery industry in East Liverpool. The desire to clean up the holiday business by the end of next week has caused unusual activity and every plant in the city was running to its fullest capacity.

Some anxiety was felt by the local manufacturers lest the large consignments of holiday ware would be included in the tieup at Pittsburg on account of the switchmen's strike. Their fears were set at rest, however, by reports from the east to the effect that the freight had passed Pittsburg without delay.

Next week will be an important one for the manufacturers of the United States, as it will mark the holding of the regular yearly meeting of the United States association at Pittsburg. Charles Howell Cook, of the Crescent Pottery company, Trenton, will preside, and it is anticipated that many important questions involving the general welfare of the industry will be up. Not the least important of these will be the wage question, and also the selling price. Much has been accomplished along this latter line during the past year, and it is stated upon the very best authority that a more uniform rate now prevails than ever before. This can have but one ultimate effect, it is said, and that will be to inspire the individual firms to greater efforts toward the quality of ware turned and this is as it should be.

But few of the trades in the East Liverpool district remain unorganized, and it is probable every branch will be brought into the fold before the New Year. Those who have been working up the thorough organization of the various branches have about completed the charter list for a local to be composed of fillers-in. The union will probably be formed within the next week.

A local union of the batters-out will be organized this month, probably within a few days by President A. S. Hughes, of the N. B. of O. P. He has been consulted by a number of the unorganized craftsmen and expressed a willingness to establish a union in this city for those laboring in that branch of the trade.

The batters-out began yesterday to obtain a roster of the men and when the list is complete every batters-out will be asked to join the union. None of them have thus far offered any opposition. A majority of the jiggermen, by whom the batters-out are employed, favor the new union for their subalterns as an effective remedy for fixing the scale of prices that will be made.

For a long time when a jiggerman was short of a man, inducements would occasionally be offered to men working with other jiggers to change. A variation of prices for labor has prevailed that has kept the batters-out in a restless spirit and was satisfactory to no one.

It will be an advantage to all trades who propose forming locals to have them perfected by January 1, as dating from that period the initiation fees will be doubled.

Last week 21 girls were taken into local union No. 52 at Ford City. The week before 41 affiliated and there

CARNEGIE WILL BE ASKED TO COME

A meeting was held last evening by the board of directors of the Carnegie library, at the home of President George Peach, and considerable business of importance transacted.

It is the expectation of the board to have matters so shaped that the dedication of the library can be held about March 1. An effort is to be made to induce Mr. Carnegie to be present and speakers of prominence will be secured.

After considerable figuring it was decided to place the salary of the librarian at $1,000 per year and that of the janitor at $40 per month. Applicants for the positions must send written communications to Clerk J. N. Hanley not later than January 1.

No action regarding the purchase of books was taken, but another meeting will be held in the near future when this matter will be looked after.

A WARM MEETING OF HEALTH BOARD

Wrangling Over Garbage Bills For Two Months the Main Feature.

DISCUSSION 'WAXED HOT

Adjournment Was the Principal Thing Accomplished—Indignation at Council for Negotiating Without the Health Board's Aid.

What was expected to be a very tame session last night, when the board of health got together, proved to be a red-hot one and there were some lively scenes enacted. The main cause for the disruption was the bills presented by the Sanitary Reduction company for the disposition of garbage and night soil for the months of October and November.

After Mayor Davidson had called the meeting to order the reports of the health officer were submitted and approved. The payment of bills was next in order and the clerk produced one from J. H. Simms, which was allowed, as was also another from the Scientific American Journal for advertising.

Next came the Sanitary Reduction company's bill of $135 for the month of October and in a few minutes the members of the board were "up in the air" as never before. When a vote was taken on the matter of its payment the members stood even—three to three—and the motion was lost.

Dr. Birkett stated that inasmuch as Robert Burner had been doing the most of his garbage furnace negotiations with council over the health board's head it would be proper for him to take his bills to that body for payment. This was only a fair sample of the wrangling that was done and on every proposition voted on the board failed to agree.

Mr. Burner grew indignant at the actions of the members and going to a telephone, sent for his attorney. The wrangling continued without any agreement until the clerk fired a second bombshell into the ranks by presenting another $135 account, representing the month of November.

During a heated discussion one of the members accused Mr. Burner of making statements in the News Review detrimental to the board. This was immediately resented and proven untrue. After finding that nothing was to be accomplished by further parley a motion was made by one of the disgusted ones to adjourn and the session ended in a thorough fiasco.

It was the intention of Mr. Burner to bring suit to obtain the money, but Mayor Davidson today received assurance from one of the "bucking" members that he was ready to switch into line, and the bills will doubtless be paid without further trouble.

NEW BOWLING ALLEY

To Be Erected on W. L. Thompson's Lot on Washington Street.

W. L. Thompson has leased ground 25x90 feet on Washington street, near Fifth street, to C. C. Carnahan, of this city, and C. B. Craig, of Wellsville. The lease is for three years at $450 per annum, which is 6 per cent interest on $7,500, the estimate placed on the value of the ground.

A one-story building will be erected.

Carnahan and Craig will open a bowling alley in the room. The fence has been removed and work on the structure will be commenced Monday.

It is intended to have it completed by Christmas.

BUSINESS MEN WORRIED

Switchmen's Strike on Eastern Roads
Has Kept Back Holiday Goods.

Holiday displays will be late on account of the tieup of merchandise by

AN ALLOWANCE OF $8,500 FOR DAMAGE TO HARKERS'

the switchmen's strike on the Pennsylvania. This causes not only worry to the business men of Pittsburg, but much anxiety on the part of the merchants of East Liverpool. Orders for Christmas goods have been larger this winter than in any previous year, for a big trade has been anticipated. Practically all the consignments are from New York and eastern points, and the merchandise has been lying in and about the yards at Pittsburg for several days.

It is declared that it will take ten days after a settlement between the switchmen and employers of the Pennsylvania has been reached to clear the Pittsburg yards. Merchants of that city have notified the railroad company that they will not receive the consignments of holiday freight after Dec. 10. McKeesport alone has 300,000 worth of Christmas goods in the tie-up, and it is estimated that the Christmas goods for this territory, in sealed cars in the Pittsburg yards, will run into the millions. Unless the strike is settled at once there will be great inconvenience.

It is thought the strike will be settled and the goods continued on their way for distribution, in time for the prospective customers.

TWO NEW LAWYERS

EAST LIVERPOOL MEN PASSED
THE STATE EXAMINATION.

The Fortunate Ones, J. F. McGarry and W. H. Burgess—Wellsville Student Also Passed.

Columbus, December 7.—(Special)—East Liverpool can boast of two new lawyers. Last evening the list of students who passed the state bar examination was announced and among those who were successful are James F. McGarry and William H. Burgess, of East Liverpool. Mr. McGarry is now completing his last year in the law department at the Ohio State university. He has not fully determined yet whether to remain and take a degree in law or to return to East Liverpool and begin practicing at once. Mr. Burgess has been reading law in the office of Attorney W. F. Lones, in Wellsville. He attended the law department of the Ohio State university during a portion of last year's term. Charles R. McGregor, of Wellsville, a student of Ada college, also passed the examination. Out of a class of 148, 95 passed.

James F. McGarry is a brother of M. J. McGarry, who was the former city solicitor of East Liverpool. Both were pressers in the potteries there until by the untiring efforts of the student's life they succeeded in entering the ranks of the legal profession. Much credit is due Mr. McGarry and success should crown his efforts.

SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTE

For Farmers Closed at Lisbon—Commissioner French's Able Talk.

Lisbon, December 7.—(Special)—The farmers' institute held its closing session this afternoon. It has been a successful one. The court room has been crowded. Last night there were almost enough persons present for an overflow meeting.

The addresses have been able. Perhaps the best was by County Commissioner Joseph H. French yesterday afternoon. Mr. French spoke on "The Horse." He made sensible suggestions on breeding and rearing. He condemned the raising of the general-purpose animal, saying the horse should be bred and trained for special duty, just as a man is educated for special work.

His knowledge is extensive, the result of years of wide experience and observation. His paper caused much favorable comment.

Injured By a Fall.

Mrs. Amelia Whinnery, an old and infirm lady living at Winona, met with quite a painful accident the other day. She was standing on a chair and falling off sustained a broken arm. She is aged about 65 years and her recovery is doubtful. Her nephew, Byron Whinnery, had his leg fractured while playing foot ball at school a day or so previously.

Water Works Trustees Effect a Settlement of Claims Due to

THE BROKEN RESERVOIR

A Larger Sum Was First Asked
But a Compromise Was Reached.

TO REPAIR THE RECENT BREAK

It Is Estimated That $4,000 Will Be Required—About $2,000 Allowed
By the Trustees on Bills for Labor And Supplies.

A compromise agreement was reached last evening between the trustees of the water works and the Harker Pottery company in the settlement of the damages suffered by the Harkers in the bursting of the reservoir October 13.

The amount allowed is $8,500, which is over $2,000 less than the amount claimed in the itemized statement of damages as presented by H. A. Harker and W. W. Harker, totaling $10,968.35, the largest items being $2,750 for the destruction of blight ware and $1,060 for saggers.

Warrants were drawn to bear 6 per cent interest, which were accepted by the damaged firm. One warrant is for $2,500, payable November 20, 1902, and the remaining warrants are for $3,000 each, payable November 20, 1903, and November 20, 1904, or sooner at the option of the water works trustees.

The first claim of the pottery people was for $10,000. When they were asked to furnish an itemized statement the items were specified, with a total of $968.35 in excess of that amount. The city council left the matter with the trustees. Several meetings have been held, the trustees agreeing to pay $5,000. This the Harker brothers positively declined, but finally agreed to accept $8,500 to which the trustees have yielded.

Further business was the allowing of about $2,000 in bills for labor and supplies. Labor bills are large on account of the repairs being made to the broken reservoir and on the new wall.

It is now estimated that the cost of repairing the break and the added strength will be about $4,000.

After Mayor Davidson had called the meeting to order the reports of the health officer were submitted and approved. The payment of bills was next in order and the clerk produced one from J. H. Simms, which was allowed, as was also another from the Scientific American Journal for advertising.

Next came the Sanitary Reduction company's bill of $135 for the month of October and in a few minutes the members of the board were "up in the air" as never before. When a vote was taken on the matter of its payment the members stood even—three to three—and the motion was lost.

W. L. Thompson has leased ground 25x90 feet on Washington street, near Fifth street, to C. C. Carnahan, of this city, and C. B. Craig, of Wellsville. The lease is for three years at $450 per annum, which is 6 per cent interest on $7,500, the estimate placed on the value of the ground.

A one-story building will be erected.

Carnahan and Craig will open a bowling alley in the room. The fence has been removed and work on the structure will be commenced Monday.

It is intended to have it completed by Christmas.

BUSINESS MEN WORRIED

Switchmen's Strike on Eastern Roads Has Kept Back Holiday Goods.

Holiday displays will be late on account of the tie-up of merchandise by the switchmen's strike on the Pennsylvania. This causes not only worry to the business men of Pittsburg, but much anxiety on the part of the merchants of East Liverpool. Orders for Christmas goods have been larger this winter than in any previous year, for a big trade has been anticipated. Practically all the consignments are from New York and eastern points, and the merchandise has been lying in and about the yards at Pittsburg for several days.

It is declared that it will take ten days after a settlement between the switchmen and employers of the Pennsylvania has been reached to clear the city have notified the railroad company that they will not receive the consignments of holiday freight after Dec. 10. McKeesport alone has 300,000 worth of Christmas goods in the tie-up, and it is estimated that the Christmas goods for this territory, in sealed cars in the Pittsburg yards, will run into the millions. Unless the strike is settled at once there will be great inconvenience.

It is thought the strike will be settled and the goods continued on their way for distribution, in time for the prospective customers.

TWO NEW LAWYERS

EAST LIVERPOOL MEN PASSED THE STATE EXAMINATION.

The Fortunate Ones, J. F. McGarry and W. H. Burgess—Wellsville Student Also Passed.

Columbus, December 7.—(Special)—East Liverpool can boast of two new lawyers. Last evening the list of students who passed the state bar examination was announced and among those who were successful are James F. McGarry and William H. Burgess, of East Liverpool. Mr. McGarry is now completing his last year in the law department at the Ohio State university. He has not fully determined yet whether to remain and take a degree in law or to return to East Liverpool and begin practicing at once. Mr. Burgess has been reading law in the office of Attorney W. F. Lones, in Wellsville. He attended the law department of the Ohio State university during a portion of last year's term. Charles R. McGregor, of Wellsville, a student of Ada college, also passed the examination. Out of a class of 148, 96 passed.

James F. McGarry is a brother of M. J. McGarry, who was the former city solicitor of East Liverpool. Both were pressers in the potteries there until by the untiring efforts of the student's life they succeeded in entering the ranks of the legal profession. Much credit is due Mr. McGarry and success should crown his efforts.

SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTE

For Farmers Closed at Lisbon—Commissioner French's Able Talk.

Lisbon, December 7.—(Special)—The farmers' institute held its closing session this afternoon. It has been a successful one. The court room has been crowded. Last night there were almost enough persons present for an overflow meeting.

The addresses have been able. Perhaps the best was by County Commissioner Joseph H. French yesterday afternoon. Mr. French spoke on "The Horse." He made sensible suggestions on breeding and rearing. He condemned the raising of the general-purpose animal, saying the horse should be bred and trained for special duty, just as a man is educated for special work.

His knowledge is extensive, the result of years of wide experience and observation. His paper caused much favorable comment.

Injured By a Fall.

Mrs. Amelia Whinnery, an old and infirm lady living at Winona, met with quite a painful accident the other day. She was standing on a chair and falling off sustained a broken arm. She is aged about 65 years and her recovery is doubtful. Her nephew, Byron Whinnery, had his leg fractured while playing foot ball at school a day or so previously.

Water Works Trustees Effect a Settlement of Claims Due to

THE BROKEN RESERVOIR

A Larger Sum Was First Asked But a Compromise Was Reached.

TO REPAIR THE RECENT BREAK

It is Estimated That $4,000 Will Be Required—About $2,000 Allowed By the Trustees on Bills for Labor And Supplies.

A compromise agreement was reached last evening between the trustees of the water works and the Harker Pottery company in the settlement of the damages suffered by the Harkers in the bursting of the reservoir October 13.

The amount allowed is $8,500, which is over $2,000 less than the amount claimed in the itemized statement of damages as presented by H. A. Harker and W. W. Harker, totaling $10,983.35, the largest items being $2,750 for the destruction of his cut ware and $1,060 for saggers. Warrants were drawn to bear 6 per cent interest, which were accepted by the damaged firm. One warrant is for $2,500, payable November 30, 1903, and the remaining warrants are for $2,000 each, payable November 30, 1903, and November 20, 1904, or sooner at the option of the water works trustees.

The first claim of the pottery people was for $10,000. When they were asked to furnish an itemized statement the items were specified, with a total of $968.35 in excess of that amount. The city council left the matter with the trustees. Several meetings have been held, the trustees agreeing to pay $5,000. This the Harker brothers positively declined, but finally agreed to accept $8,500 to which the trustees have yielded.

Further business was the allowing of about $2,000 in bills for labor and supplies. Labor bills are large on account of the repairs being made to the broken reservoir and on the new wall.

It is now estimated that the cost of repairing the break and the added strength will be about $4,000.

EAST END

TO STOP THEFT OF COAL

A High Board Fence Will Be Built Around Sewer Pipe Works.

The American Sewer Pipe works will have a high board fence erected around the entire lot and buildings. T. F. Anderson said this morning that the company felt that it would save money by the improvement, especially when the people were having to pay 16 cents per bushel for coal from the dealers.

For 14 years the sewer pipe works has been supplying people with coal gratis. It is true that the coal is carried in baskets, but much coal has disappeared.

One evening Mr. Anderson met three women with baskets of coal and said to them: "I know you people, and am going over to the fire station and see John Spence."

"Oh, we'll take it back, Mr. Anderson," pleaded the guilty woman. "You might as well take it on home as it will cost you just the same," said Mr. Anderson. He did not report them, but they are living in fear of his anger. Cases of coal stealing have become so numerous that the high board fence will be constructed.

MAY LOSE HIS FOOT

Bird Swearingen Badly Hurt While Trying to Climb Over Cars.

A severe accident occurred at dusk last evening near the telegraph station west of Ralston crossing. Bird Swearingen, aged 16, who works in the clay department at Laughlin No. 1, had started up the railroad track to his home. A freight train was standing on the track and the young man attempted to get on the other side by climbing between the cars.

In making the attempt the engine suddenly backed and Swearingen's right heel was mashed between the bumpers to a pulp. He was taken to the residence of John Hanselman on Railroad street, and was later taken by his brother, Harry Swearingen, to their home on Kossuth street.

A physician was summoned from the East End, but owing to the swollen condition of the foot no operation was performed. The young man's foot may have to be amputated.

NASAL CATARRH CURED

Pe-ru-na Cures a Case of Five Years' Standing.

Mr. Rudolph M. Patterson, Chicago, Ill.

Hon. Rudolph M. Patterson, a well-known lawyer, of Chicago, Ill., writes the following letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., at Columbus, Ohio:

The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio:
Gentlemen—"I have been a sufferer from nasal catarrh for the past five years, and at the earnest solicitation of a friend I tried Peruna and am glad to say it has afforded a complete cure. It is with pleasure I recommend it to others."—RUDOLPH M. PATTERSON.

Mrs. J. C. Garrett, of 38 West 117th street, New York City, writes:

"I can honestly recommend Peruna as a great catarrh remedy. It heals and heals quickly and permanently."

"This is simply the whole story in a word. I have for years suffered with catarrh, aggravated when I took cold and Peruna cured me. It is indeed a great medicine, and worthy the highest praise, for it is reliable and will never disappoint you."—Mrs. J. C. Garrett.

There are two things that the whole medical profession agree about concerning catarrh. The first is that catarrh is the most prevalent and omnipresent disease to which the people in the United States are subject. All classes of people have it. Those who stay indoors much and those who go outdoors much. Working classes have it and sedentary classes have it.

The doctor finds catarrh to be his constant and ever-present foe. It complicates nearly every disease he is called upon to treat.

which all doctors agree, is that it is difficult to cure it. Local remedies may give relief but they fail to cure permanently. Sprays or snuffs amount to little or nothing except to give temporary relief.

Catarrh is frequently located in internal organs which cannot be reached by any sort of local treatment. All this is known by every physician.

To devise some systemic internal remedy which would reach catarrh at its source, to eradicate it permanently from the system—this has been the desire of the medical profession for a long time. Forty years ago Dr. Hartman confronted this problem. He believed then that he had solved it. He still believes he has solved it. He cures thousands of people annually. During all these years Peruna has been the remedy upon which he has relied.

It was at first a private prescription, afterwards manufactured expressly for him in large quantities. This remedy, Peruna, is now to be found in every drug-store and nearly every home in the land. It is the only reliable internal remedy ever devised to cure any case of catarrh, however long the case may have been standing.

Mr. Camillus Senne, 257 West 129th street, New York, writes:

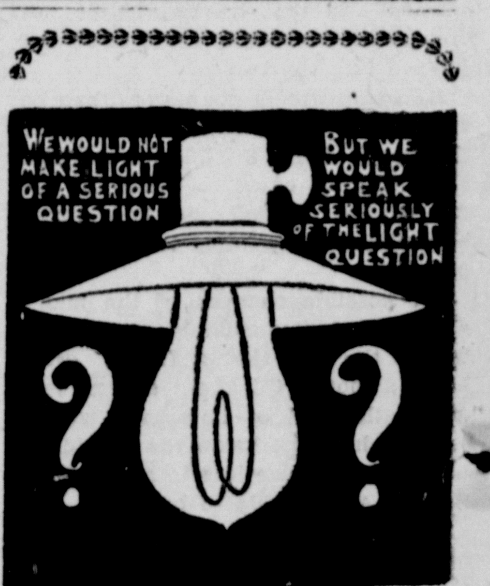

"I have fully recovered from my catarrhal troubles. I suffered for three years with catarrh of the head, nose and throat. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief, but at last I have been cured by the wonderful remedy called Peruna."

"I read of Peruna in your almanac, and wrote you for advice, which I followed. After taking one and one-half bottles of Peruna I am entirely cured, and can recommend Peruna to anyone as the best and surest remedy for any catarrhal troubles."—Camillus Senne.

A course of Peruna never fails to bring relief. There is no other remedy like Peruna. Its cures are prompt and permanent.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

NASAL CATARRH CURED

Pe-ru-na Cures a Case of Five Years' Standing.

Mr. Rudolph M. Patterson, Chicago, Ill.

Hon. Rudolph M. Patterson, a well-known lawyer, of Chicago, Ill., writes the following letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., at Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen—"I have been a sufferer from nasal catarrh for the past five years, and at the earnest solicitation of a friend I tried Peruna and am glad to say it has afforded a complete cure. It is with pleasure I recommend it to others."—RUDOLPH M. PATTERSON.

Mrs. J. C. Garrett, of 38 West 117th street, New York City, writes:

"I can honestly recommend Peruna as a great catarrh remedy. It heals and heals quickly and permanently."

"This is simply the whole story in a word. I have for years suffered with catarrh, aggravated when I took cold and Peruna cured me. It is indeed a great medicine, and worthy the highest praise, for it is reliable and will never disappoint you."—Mrs. J. C. Garrett.

There are two things that the whole medical profession agree about concerning catarrh. The first is that catarrh is the most prevalent and omnipresent disease to which the people in the United States are subject. All classes of people have it. Those who stay indoors much and those who go outdoors much. Working classes have it and sedentary classes have it.

The doctor finds catarrh to be his constant and ever-present foe. It complicates nearly every disease he is called upon to treat.

The second thing about catarrh on and bible class; 11 a. m., morning prayer and sermon, subject: "Christ's Advent to the Nation"; 2:30 p. m., confirmation class; 3:30 p. m., service for baptism; 7:30 p. m., choral evensong and sermon, subject: "The City's Confession of Christ."

which all doctors agree, is that it is difficult to cure it. Local remedies may give relief but they fail to cure permanently. Sprays or snuffs amount to little or nothing except to give temporary relief.

Catarrh is frequently located in internal organs which cannot be reached by any sort of local treatment. All this is known by every physician.

To devise some systemic internal remedy which would reach catarrh at its source, to eradicate it permanently from the system—this has been the desire of the medical profession for a long time. Forty years ago Dr. Hartman confronted this problem. He believed then that he had solved it. He still believes he has solved it. He cures thousands of people annually. During all these years Peruna has been the remedy upon which he has relied.

It was at first a private prescription, afterwards manufactured expressly for him in large quantities. This remedy, Peruna, is now to be found in every drug-store and nearly every home in the land. It is the only reliable internal remedy ever devised to cure any case of catarrh, however long the case may have been standing.

Mr. Camillus Senne, 257 West 129th street, New York, writes:

"I have fully recovered from my catarrhal troubles."

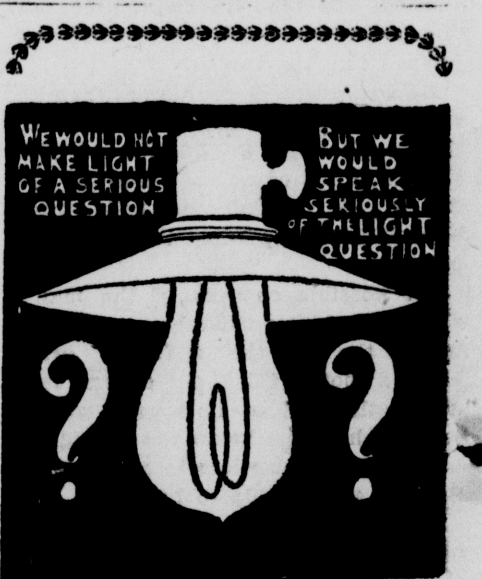

I suffered for three years with catarrh of the head, nose and throat. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief, but at last I have been cured by the wonderful remedy called Peruna.

"I read of Peruna in your almanac, and wrote you for advice, which I followed. After taking one and one-half bottles of Peruna I am entirely cured, and can recommend Peruna to anyone as the best and surest remedy for any catarrhal troubles."—Camillus Senne.

A course of Peruna never fails to bring relief. There is no other remedy like Peruna. Its cures are prompt and permanent.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK

Ample Prospects of Good Business,
But Traffic Congestion
Embarrasses.

ORDERS FOR STEEL RAILS

Are Still Being Accepted By the Mills,
Although Their Capacity Is Engaged for a Year—Farm Staples
Advancing.

New York, Dec. 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part:

Current trade is of ample dimensions, but traffic congestion grows worse, and labor controversies add to the embarrassment of shippers. If consignments of heavy goods for the holiday trade are delayed much longer there will be serious loss. Prices of commodities tend upward.

Although nominal quotations of iron and steel are unchanged, figures refer only to future deliveries, and in most cases prices for current shipment command a considerable premium. Since this margin is influenced by local conditions at the various mills and furnaces, besides being further complicated by scarcity of freight cars and strikes, it is almost impossible to arrive at a fairly representative price level. In general, however, the tone is distinctly firmer, with especial scarcity of billets, and further importations. Steel rail mills are still accepting orders, with their capacity engaged about up to the end of next year, and there is much concern regarding the filling of contracts since the lack of fuel grows more alarming. Instead of pig iron production showing another new high record on Dec. 1, as was indicated by the urgency of demand, it now appears probable that the loss will be officially announced because coke was not available. Instead of furnace stocks being entirely eliminated, an increase may be recorded since cars could not be secured to remove supplies.

A seasonable decrease has occurred in the movement of pipe, while independent mills have furnished sufficient competition in sheets and wire nails to bring slightly lower prices.

Activity and Strength in Wool.

Activity and strength are conspicuous in the markets for domestic wool. Coats Bros', circular makes the average of one hundred grades 75.1 cents, which is the best price recorded since May. Concessions are not secured by purchasers, but on the other hand, growers grow more confident. Despite recent phenomenal sales in Boston, there is steady buying, and stocks do not accumulate, although arrivals are liberal. Makers of heavy weight woolsens received good duplicate orders, while contracts for spring lines come forward freely.

Staple products continue advancing, corn making a most sensational gain. Extraordinarily high prices for this cereal tempted many traders to sell future contracts in expectation of a sharp reaction, but a further violent rise to the highest price for many years compelled covering at severe losses. This grain is not governed by precedent, the smallest exports for many years failing to produce any effect.

Wheat was also sharply advanced to the best price of the season, largely through sympathy with corn, for which it was freely substituted. Poor weather for the new crop winter wheat and liberal milling demand were also strengthening factors, besides exports from all ports amounting to 4,515,752 bushels for the week, against 3,255,211 a year ago.

Cotton was aroused from its lethargy by an unexpectedly low official estimate of the current crop at only 9,574,000 bales, when about a million more was predicted by the members of the leasing exchanges. Vigorous speculation and an advance of over $2 a bale occurred when the low yield was announced.

FEARS OF MONEY STRINGENCY

Gained Upper Hand in the Stock Market, Friday.

New York, Dec. 7.—Fears of money stringency gained the upper hand in the stock market Friday and precipitated active selling throughout the list. The bears were active and energetic in taking the market away at

The PSYCHOLOGY OF FOOTBALL

By Professor G. W. PATRICK of the University of Iowa

HE psychology of football is interesting. A psychic force which will draw 4,000 people from their homes and $2,000 from their pocketbooks for an hour's sport is worthy of study.

CONSIDERED FROM THE STANDPOINT OF PLAYERS AND SPECTATORS FOOTBALL IS SUGGESTIVE OF THE LAW OF REVERSION.

The real psychological significance of the game lies with the spectators, not the players. With the spectators it is a form of sport, pure and simple, and the peculiar and intense enthusiasm which attends it can be explained only from an anthropological standpoint.

The elements of institution rivalry which are present are present also in baseball and in intercollegiate debates and oratorical contests, SO THAT THE SURPLUS OF ENTHUSIASM DISPLAYED IN FOOTBALL CONTESTS MUST BE DUE TO THE PECULIAR CHARACTER OF THE SPORT ITSELF—THAT IS, TO ITS PRIMITIVE CHARACTER. The lively chases for the goal, as for cover, the rude physical shock of the heavy opposing teams, the scintillatingly fierce character of the collision, resembling, as it does, an ancient primeval free fight, awake our deep seated, slumbering instincts and permit us to revel for a time in these long restricted impulses, relieve completely the strain of the will and so serve all conditions of reversionary play.

each recurrence of signs of selling, and their buying to cover at frequent intervals caused many irregular rallies and checks to the decline. The demand quickly fell away on these rallies and activity in the market was only renewed when prices began to give way again. The apparent running out of the recent speculative movement in Manhattan and the consequent realizing by the longs was a feature of the market. The stock made an effective rallying point for the bears in their aggressive onslaught on the market. In the late dealings the stock fell to 135 1/4, representing an extreme decline of 7%. At the same time Amalgamated Copper, which had fluctuated rather sluggishly but heavily all day, took a new downward plunge to 69 1/4, compared with its previous low record of 71 1/4. This unsettled the whole market and made the closing active and easy, but with the selling pressure much less acute in the general list than in the stocks named. The deposit at the sub-treasury for transfer to the interior of $1,000,000 completed the fright over the money prospect which had been gathering force all day, with the contemplation of the preliminary figures of the week's currency movement. Banks marked up their call loan rates over the counter to 5 per cent and exercised stricter discrimination as to industrial collateral. Losses of 1 to 3 points were made by the majority of the prominent active stocks. General Electric, after rising to 28 3/4, broke to 28 1/4 on the declaration of only the regular quarterly dividend, and then fluctuated wildly above the lowest.

Bonds were easier in sympathy with stocks. Total sales, par value, $3,990,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

How to Prevent Croup.

It will be good news to the mothers of small children to learn that croup can be prevented. The first sign of the disease is hoarseness. A day or two before the attack the child becomes hoarse. This is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the cough appears, and it will dispel all symptoms of croup. In this way all danger and anxiety may be avoided. That remedy is used in this way by many thousands of mothers, and has never been known to fail. It is, in fact, the only remedy that can always be depended upon, and that is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK

Ample Prospects of Good Business,
But Traffic Congestion
Embarrasses.

ORDERS FOR STEEL RAILS

Are Still Being Accepted By the Mills,
Although Their Capacity Is Engaged for a Year—Farm Staples
Advancing.

New York, Dec. 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part:

Current trade is of ample dimensions, but traffic congestion grows worse, and labor controversies add to the embarrassment of shippers. If consignments of fancy goods for the holiday trade are delayed much longer there will be serious loss. Prices of commodities tend upward.

Although nominal quotations of iron and steel are unchanged, figures refer only to future deliveries, and in most cases prices for current shipment command a considerable premium. Since this margin is influenced by local conditions at the various mills and furnaces, besides being further complicated by scarcity of freight cars and strikes, it is almost impossible to arrive at a fairly representative price level. In general, however, the tone is distinctly firmer, with especial scarcity of billets, and further importations. Steel rail mills are still accepting orders, with their capacity engaged about up to the end of next year, and there is much concern regarding the filling of contracts since the lack of fuel grows more alarming. Instead of pig iron production showing another new high record on Dec. 1, as was indicated by the urgency of demand, it now appears probable that the loss will be officially announced because coke was not available. Instead of furnace stocks being entirely eliminated, an increase may be recorded since cars could not be secured to remove supplies.

A reasonable decrease has occurred in the movement of pipe, while independent mills have furnished sufficient competition in sheets and wire nails to bring slightly lower prices.

Activity and Strength in Wool.

Activity and strength are conspicuous in the markets for domestic wool. Coats Bros', circular makes the average of one hundred grades 17.51 cents, which is the best price recorded since May. Concessions are not secured by purchasers, but on the other hand, buyers grow more confident. Despite recent phenomenal sales in Boston, there is steady buying, and stocks do not accumulate, although arrivals are liberal. Makers of heavy weight woolsens received good duplicate orders, while contracts for spring lines come forward freely. Staple products continue advancing, corn making a most sensational gain. Extraordinarily high prices for this cereal tempted many traders to sell future contracts in expectation of a sharp reaction, but a further violent rise to the highest price for many years compelled covering at severe losses. This grain is not governed by precedent, the smallest exports for many years failing to produce any effect.

Wheat was also sharply advanced to the best price of the season, largely through sympathy with corn, for which it was freely substituted. Poor weather for the new crop winter wheat and liberal milling demand were also strengthening factors, besides exports from all ports amounting to 4,515,752 bushels for the week, against 3,255,211 a year ago.

Cotton was aroused from its lethargy by an unexpectedly low official estimate of the current crop at only 9,674,000 bales, when about a million more was predicted by the members of the leading exchanges. Vigorous speculation and an advance of over $2 a bale occurred when the low yield was announced.

FEARS OF MONEY STRINGENCY

Gained Upper Hand in the Stock Market, Friday.

New York, Dec. 7.—Fears of money stringency gained the upper hand in the stock market Friday and precipitated active selling throughout the list. The bears were active and energetic in taking the market away at

The PSYCHOLOGY OF FOOTBALL

By Professor G. W. PATRICK of the University of Iowa

HE psychology of football is interesting. A psychic force which will draw 4,000 people from their homes and $2,000 from their pocketbooks for an hour's sport is worthy of study.

The real psychological significance of the game lies with the spectators, not the players. With the spectators it is a form of sport, pure and simple, and the peculiar and intense enthusiasm which attends it can be explained only from an anthropological standpoint.

The elements of institution rivalry which are present are present also in baseball and in intercollegiate debates and oratorical contests, SO THAT THE SURPLUS OF ENTHUSIASM DISPLAYED IN FOOTBALL CONTESTS MUST BE DUE TO THE PECULIAR CHARACTER OF THE SPORT ITSELF—THAT IS, TO ITS PRIMITIVE CHARACTER. The lively chases for the goal, as for cover, the rude physical shock of the heavy opposing teams, the sermagelike melee character of the collision, resembling, as it does, an ancient primeval free fight, awake our deep seated, slumbering instincts and permit us to revel for a time in these long restricted impulses, relieve completely the strain of the will and so serve all conditions of reversionary play.

each recurrence of signs of selling, and their buying to cover at frequent intervals caused many irregular rallies and checks to the decline. The demand quickly fell away on these rallies and activity in the market was only renewed when prices began to give way again. The apparent running out of the recent speculative movement in Manhattan and the consequent realizing by the longs was a feature of the market. The stock made an effective rallying point for the bears in their aggressive onslaught on the market. In the late dealings the stock fell to 135%, representing an extreme decline of 7%.

At the same time Amalgamated Copper, which had fluctuated rather slightly but heavily all day, took a new downward plunge to 69%, compared with its previous low record of 71%. This unsettled the whole market and made the closing active and easy, but with the selling pressure much less acute in the general list than in the stocks named. The deposit at the sub-treasury for transfer to the interior of $1,000,000 completed the fright over the money prospect which had been gathering force all day, with the contemplation of the preliminary figures of the week's currency movement. Banks marked up their call loan rates over the counter to 5 per cent and exercised stricter discrimination as to industrial collateral. Losses of 1 to 3 points were made by the majority of the prominent active stocks. General Electric, after rising to 289%, broke to 280% on the declaration of only the regular quarterly dividend, and then fluctuated wildly above the lowest.

Bonds were easier in sympathy with stocks. Total sales, par value, $3,990,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

How to Prevent Croup.

It will be good news to the mothers of small children to learn that croup can be prevented. The first sign of the disease is hoarseness. A day or two before the attack the child becomes hoarse. This is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the cough appears, and it will dispel all symptoms of croup. In this way all danger and anxiety may be avoided. That remedy is used in this way by many thousands of mothers, and has never been known to fail. It is, in fact, the only remedy that can always be depended upon, and that is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

A weekly exchange, in giving an obituary notice of a man whose career was not remarkable, tells this interesting story: "Once, when he was past 60 years of age, he had engaged to pay a certain small sum of money on a certain Saturday, at a certain hour. It was winter time and a storm came on that made the country roads impassable. Yet the old man walked 12 miles through the blizzard and kept his engagement. 'Why did you do it?' asked his creditor. 'I should not have felt uneasy if you had not come.' 'Ah, but I should,' returned our honest old friend. 'I have made it a rule in life to keep my promises, and I don't propose to start in to break them now.' Here is a sermon in a few lines. The man who keeps his engagements punctually and faithfully wins honor and esteem, even if he does not win riches. He makes his career a success. True success is never won by any man of whom it cannot be said: 'His word is as good as his bond.'"

While the farmers are receiving their mail at their front gate daily by means of the free rural delivery carrier, thousands of people who live in cities of one, two and three thousand must continue to go to the postoffice for their letters and papers. Representative Atcheson, of Pennsylvania, has introduced a bill providing that free delivery shall be furnished at every postoffice which produces a gross revenue of not less than $1,900. This would take in many hundred cities that cannot now secure free delivery. Effort in the direction of extension of free delivery service will prove more beneficial to the people than the proposed reduction of letter postage to one cent, and the plan is less costly to inaugurate.

The census bureau has issued a bulletin in which it is shown conclusively that the average duration of human life in the United States is steadily and wonderfully increasing. In 1890, according to the bulletin, the average age at which Americans died was 31.1 years; in 1900 the average lifetime was 35.4, a gain of 4.3 years. This showing is merely corroborative of the results reached by the astute mathematicians of the life insurance companies. Advancement in medical science is doubtless partly responsible for increased longevity, but the fact that men are leading better lives probably has more to do with it.

The ablest statesmen seem to agree that there is nothing in the new Hay-Pauncefote treaty to which any good American can reasonably take exception. That being the case, it should be ratified without delay, and a work destined to be memorable as a twentieth century achievement inaugurated.

AT THE THEATER

"Eight Bells" which has been such a wonderful success everywhere will be seen at the opera house Monday night. The Brothers Byrne are a rarely progressive firm of clever artists; and in this season's production will give their many admirers a rare treat, for they have perfected a number of new and startling tricks besides several scenic effects that are marvels of stage-craft. An outlay of a large sum of money by these imitable pantomimists results in one of the most realistic stage productions before the public.

York State Folks," Arthur Sidman's new pastoral comedy, which will be seen at the opera house Tuesday night, comes direct from a long and successful run at the Chestnut street Opera house, Philadelphia, and has only a brief tour preceding the New York engagement. The play has been hailed by press and public as "the legitimate successor to 'Shore Acres' and 'The Old Homestead,'" and many have added "better than both." It is a simple story of life in a typical country village and abounds in realistic character drawing and quaint comedy.

When Abraham Lincoln was just coming into prominence as a lawyer in Illinois the war with Mexico had recently been fought and the difficulties that culminated in the civil war were just beginning to gain shape. The time was an important one in the history of the United States. In Charles Klein's new play "on John Grigsby" in which Frank Keenan is starring, these stirring days are reviewed accurately and with dramatic force. The play, one of the very best American works ever written, and it has already won a very high place in popular esteem. It will be the attraction for the Elks' benefit Jan. 7.

The Daniel R. Ryan company presented "Ingomar" to a large house last night. Mr. Ryan is at his best in this play. The support was good and the audience was well pleased. Tonight, "A Grip of Steel."

LURED BY SCENT.

Rats Caught in Numbers by an Ingenious Means.

Rats are very susceptible to the odor of certain drugs, and any ordinary trap set in their haunts is likely to be successful if dressed with these scents, the attraction of which, rat catchers affirm, they cannot resist. An example is: Powdered assafetida, eight grains; oil of rhodium, two drams; oil of aniseed, one dram; oil of lavender, one-half dram. Shake together in a bottle and use a very small quantity to dress the bait.

To catch rats, cover a common barrel with stiff, stout paper, tying the edge round the barrel. Place a board so that the rats may have easy access to the top. Sprinkle cheese parings or other food for the rats on the paper for several days until they begin to think that they have a right to their daily rations from this source. Then place in the bottom of the barrel a piece of rock about six or seven inches high, filling with water until only enough of it projects above the water for one rat to lodge upon.

Now replace the paper, first cutting a cross in the middle, and the first rat that comes on the barrel top goes through into the water and climbs on the rock. The paper comes back to its original position, and the second rat follows the first. Then begins a fight for the possession of the dry place on the stone, the noise of which attracts the others, who share the same fate.—Baltimore American.

A TIRED MUSICIAN.

How Strauss Once Snubbed a Russian Court Dignitary.

When Johann Strauss took his orchestra to Russia, he had some unusual experiences not generally vouchsafed to those who live outside an autocratic government.

One day he received the czar's commands to play before her at her summer resort and was told, on arriving there, that he would have to rehearse his programme three times before the performance. He begged to know the reason for that, but no explanation was given him. These were her majesty's orders, and he could only comply. Still, his astonishment grew when he saw during the three rehearsals an empty court carriage drawn by a pair of horses slowly going back and forth in front of his orchestra.

Throughout the final performance the mysterious act was explained. The empress, having a sharp attack of gout, was obliged to recline in the carriage, her foot on a cushion, while the concert took place, and the object of rehearsal had been to accustom the horses to a full string band lest they should take fright and bolt with her.

At the end of the performance an exalted dignitary of the court bade Strauss follow him to a splendid grand piano, saying:

"Now be good enough to play me all the newest Vienna music."

Although he was pretty fatigued by his three rehearsals and state performance, Strauss thought it expedient to comply, but after he had played continuously for over an hour he stopped.

saying, "I presume that will be sufficient?"

"I am not at all tired," coolly rejoined his excellency.

"But I am!" said Strauss and rose from the instrument.—Youth's Companion.

The Artichoke.

The artichoke has nothing to do with art or the choking of it. The artichoke is an innocent vegetable, known to the Arabians as the ardischauli, or earth thorn. The Jerusalem artichoke was never seen near Jerusalem. Its first name is a corruption of the Italian girasole, which means turning to the sun. It is a species of sunflower, bearing a tuber like that of a potato.

A weekly exchange, in giving an obituary notice of a man whose career was not remarkable, tells this interesting story: "Once, when he was past 60 years of age, he had engaged to pay a certain small sum of money on a certain Saturday, at a certain hour. It was winter time and a storm came on that made the country roads impassable. Yet the old man walked 12 miles through the blizzard and kept his engagement. 'Why did you do it?' asked his creditor. 'I should not have felt uneasy if you had not come.' 'Ah, but I should,' returned our honest old friend. 'I have made it a rule in life to keep my promises, and I don't propose to start in to break them now.' Here is a sermon in a few lines. The man who keeps his engagements punctually and faithfully wins honor and esteem, even if he does not win riches. He makes his career a success. True success is never won by any man of whom it cannot be said: 'His word is as good as his bond.'"

While the farmers are receiving their mail at their front gate daily by means of the free rural delivery carrier, thousands of people who live in cities of one, two and three thousand must continue to go to the postoffice for their letters and papers. Representative Atcheson, of Pennsylvania, has introduced a bill providing that free delivery shall be furnished at every postoffice which produces a gross revenue of not less than $1,900. This would take in many hundred cities that cannot now secure free delivery. Effort in the direction of extension of free delivery service will prove more beneficial to the people than the proposed reduction of letter postage to one cent, and the plan is less costly to inaugurate.

WELLSVILLE

FIRE STATION ABLAZE

WELLSVILLE'S CITY BUILDING HAS A CLOSE CALL.

Burning Rubbish Caused Dense Smoke and Much Excitement, But Little Damage.

The chilly stillness of Wellsville was broken last night at 8 o'clock by the sounding of the fire alarm. As was the case during the fire of Wednesday night the majority of people and firemen were at the show in the opera house, and it was several minutes before a crowd gathered at the scene of the fire, which was in the central fire station in the city building.

Charles E. Boyd, who has an office over the station, smelled the smoke and ran down stairs, where he was met with a dense cloud of smoke emerging from the doors and windows of the station. He immediately sent in an alarm and the firemen were much chagrined at finding the fire in their so-called home.

With desperation the brave lads groped through the smoke and darkness to the rear of the building, where they discovered that a barrel containing rubbish was burning and that the entire city building was in immediate danger of total destruction. A water pipe being handy the blaze was soon extinguished and an end was put to a fire which might have resulted in heavy loss.

Romance of the Corinthian Column.

In the winter a young girl had died in Corinth. Some time afterward her maid gathered together various trinkets and playthings which the girl had loved and brought them to the girl's grave. There she placed them in a basket near the monument and put a large square tile upon the basket to prevent the wind from overturning it. It happened that under the basket was a root of an acanthus plant. When spring came, the acanthus sprouted, but its shoots were not able to pierce the basket, and accordingly they grew around it, having the basket in their midst. Such of the long leaves as grew up against the four protruding corners of the tile on the top of the basket curled round under these corners and formed pretty volutes.

Kallimachos, the sculptor, walking that way one day, saw this and immediately conceived the notion that the form of the basket with the plaque on top of it and surrounded by the leaves and stalks of acanthus would be a comely heading for columns in architecture. He from this idea formed the beautiful Corinthian style of capital. Such, at least, is the story as the architect Vitruvius told it 1,900 years ago.

Hostess—Are you a musician, Mr. Jones?

Jones (who is dying to give an exhibition of his powers)—Well—er—yes, I think I can lay claim to some knowledge of music.

Hostess—I am delighted to know it. My daughter is about to play, and I should be very glad if you would kindly turn over the music for her.

A Unique Book. A publishing firm which makes a specialty of expensive editions of standard authors has recently published an edition of the works of Dickens. The set is in thirty volumes and liberally illustrated and illuminated. An eccentric buyer decided he would like to have a set composed of the proof sheets of the edition. These were, of course, much marked, corrected, noted and otherwise marred, but they were collected and bound in an exquisite binding and sent to the collector of original books. He paid $1,400 for the privilege of owning probably the most unique reprint of a set of Dickens' works in existence.—New York Times.

A Choice of Calves.

The difficulties the early Virginian colonists had with their live stock is curiously illustrated by the fact that in the colony of Massachusetts, Bay a red calf was cheaper than a black one, experience having shown that the former was more likely to be attacked by wolves, owing, it was thought, to the wolves mistaking it for a deer.

WELLSVILLE

WELLSVILLE'S CITY BUILDING HAS A CLOSE CALL.

Burning Rubbish Caused Dense Smoke and Much Excitement, But Little Damage.

The chilly stillness of Wellsville was broken last night at 8 o'clock by the sounding of the fire alarm. As was the case during the fire of Wednesday night the majority of people and firemen were at the show in the opera house, and it was several minutes before a crowd gathered at the scene of the fire, which was in the central fire station in the city building.

Charles E. Boyd, who has an office over the station, smelled the smoke and ran down stairs, where he was met with a dense cloud of smoke emerging from the doors and windows of the station. He immediately sent in an alarm and the firemen were much chagrined at finding the fire in their so-called home.

With desperation the brave lads groped through the smoke and darkness to the rear of the building, where they discovered that a barrel containing rubbish was burning and that the entire city building was in immediate danger of total destruction. A water pipe being handy the blaze was soon extinguished and an end was put to a fire which might have resulted in heavy loss.

The address on this latter subject last Sunday evening by Rev. L. C. Wells was exceedingly interesting and its announcement brought out an immense crowd, all eager to hear Mr. Fitzpatrick discussed by such an able man.

Rev. Mr. McKee stated last evening that it was not his intention to condemn Mr. Wells, but rather to uphold him. He said also that it was his desire to let the saloonists and Suspicion pointed strongly toward the boys and Metsch appeared before the mayor and had warrants issued for their arrest.

SOLDIERS TO WATCH,

While Filipinos Learn Self-Government, Recommends Chaffee.

OVER CONFIDENCE MAIN CAUSE

Recent Massacre on the Island of Samar—Causes He Assigns For Conditions in Areas Disturbed by Insurgents.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The war department made public the first annual report of Major General Adna R. Chaffee, military governor of the Philippine Islands. In part, General Chaffee sums up the situation in the Philippines from a military point of view by stating that the provinces of Batangas and Laguna, in Luzon, and the islands of Samar, Mindoro, Cebu and Bohol constitute the area now disturbed by any embodied force of insurgents. He says that to the physical character of the country, to the nature of the warfare of the rebels, who are amigro and foe in the self-same hour, to the humanity of the troops, which is taken advantage of by the rebels and the inhabitants who sympathize with them, and to the fear of assassination on the part of the friendly disposed if they give information to the American forces, is due the prolongation of the guerrilla warfare.

He recommends that there be no further material reduction of troops before January, 1903. The civil governments, which are being organized—provincial and municipal—General Chaffee says are both new and untried, and there is but one certain and reliable method of ascertaining the progress of the Filipinos in self-government, namely, observation of the army.

Recommends Permanent Post.

He recommends that a permanent post be constructed at once in the vicinity of Manila for a garrison of two squadrons of cavalry, two batteries of artillery, and two full regiments of infantry, together with a hospital and storehouses, the whole to be under the command of a brigadier general. He gives $500,000 as a rough estimate of cost for this project, and says that $200,000 should be available immediately in order to take full advantage of the dry season. For the construction of permanent quarters at other points, which may be determined upon during the fiscal year ended June, 1903, he estimates $2,000,000 is required.

General Chaffee devotes a good part of his report to the terrible disaster which befell Company C, Ninth Infantry, at Balangiga, Samar, and which, he says, was "largely due to overconfidence in assumed pacified conditions, and in a people who are to a great extent as yet strangers to and unappreciative of our humane and personal liberty, beliefs and actions."

American soldiers, he says, fail to discriminate between real and assumed friendship on the part of the Filipinos.

A table is submitted showing that since June 10, last, the date of the last table submitted by General MacArthur, up to Sept. 15, 361 Filipino officers and 3,635 men surrendered to the American military, and 26 officers and 494 men were captured.

RICHES OR LOVE—WHICH WILL YOU HAVE?

By Mrs. FRANK LESLIE

RICHES OR LOVE—WHICH WILL YOU HAVE IF YOU CAN'T HAVE BOTH?

Of course, to have both—that is, an unlimited amount of love and not too large an amount of money—is the ideal condition, but who possesses it or hopes for it? I am afraid we must concede that riches are inimical to love, that Plutus is the enemy rather than the ally of Eros and that millionaires, men and women, are not ideal lovers.

SHALL WE, THEN, ACCEPT THE OPPOSING THEORY THAT BREAD AND CHEESE AND KISSES ARE ENOUGH FOR LIFE and that sensible, well instructed twentieth century men and women, trying on such a basis? thrive in palaces, is he and long lived in the roses around the win boughs and nothing in lar? Common sense de once sentiment finds MUST WE SAY, ERTY IS ALSO INIMICAL TO LOVE; that the goddess Poverty, celebrated by George Sand as one of the most desirable of the Parnassian royal family, is as little likely to abide comfortably with Eros as is her brother Plutus?

Two persons of sympathetic tastes, temper, habits and aims, marrying upon an income sufficient to gratify those tastes and habits and to continue the pursuits they have enjoyed before marriage, stand a far better chance for a happy life than if they were enormously wealthy or extremely poor.

Happiness lies in the middle region, sang the old Latin poet thousands of years ago, and nothing has been said since to supersede his utterance. Nothing is so desirable in its extreme as in its moderate phase, and most certainly this axiom applies to the substantial basis of married life.

GREAT SIX DAY RACE IN NEW YORK, DEC. 9-15.

Many Famous Foreign Riders to Push Pedals For Both Glory and Cash.

The annual six day cycle race will begin in Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 9. As it is an international event unusual interest is being manifested in the contest. The foreign teams which arrived on this side about two weeks ago are now applying the finishing touches to their training operations, and they are sure to give the American cracks a hard, fast fight for honors and cash.

The great continuous cycling carnival has become one of the most popular athletic features of the year, and huge crowds of enthusiasts flock to New York during its progress. The two months of inactivity following the close of the outdoor season have caused lovers of pedal pushing to consider themselves sufferers at the hands of fate. The six day contest, however, soothes their feelings, giving them a splendid opportunity to enjoy a favorite of the cycle racing enthusiast's favorite pastime.

After a careful sizing up of the personnel and records of the European scorers the conclusion is reached that they require careful and serious consideration. Most of the men have appeared on American tracks before, and their ability consequently is more or less familiar to followers of racing. Other of the many chasers who have yet to make their initial appearance before the American public are said by authoritative persons to be of very dangerous caliber. So let our boys beware of the invaders.

The transatlantic speed merchants who have entered for the week's grind are as follows:

Gougoltz and Simar, France; Chevallier and Fisher, Switzerland; Muller and Le Poutre, Italy; De Roock and Kerff, Belgium, and Frederick and Jaak, Germany.

Gougoltz and Simar, it will be remembered, were only a lap behind the winners last year and furnished considerable excitement throughout the week by their remarkable sprinting in an endeavor to shake off their fast flying opponents. Fisher and Chevallier took part in the 1899 race and created the sensation of the week by stealing the only laps gained in that manner throughout the battle. By furious well timed spurts they killed off one after another of their rivals. Muller rode here before, but with an incapable partner. This year his team mate is one of the best long distance men on the continent. Le Poutre is no stranger to the six day race either, having on several occasions astonished Europe by his stamina.

Frederick has frequently ridden in this country. He has a better partner than has ever before been the case. He and his mate, Hans Jaak, champion of Germany, will give their competitors a lively "run for the money." De Roock and Kerff are two of the best cyclists ever produced in Belgium. They have excellent chances for victory.

A series of introductory races will be run off in Madison Square Garden Dec. 7, the Saturday night preceding the big event. These contests will serve as an appetizer for the six day racers. The preliminary meet will also serve to familiarize the public with the foreign riders.

The track, now in course of construction, will be banked to a height of about sixteen feet. Last summer's planked course proved a source of danger to many cyclists, and the new "skimming dish" is planned to rise at an easier angle.

The Case of Frank Wilton. 2:09 1-4. The most celebrated ring case of this year will come up at the December boards of both the National and the American Trotting associations. The real name of the horse is Frank Wilton, 2:09 1/4, who within the last eight weeks has raced in slow classes under the name of Ormus, Frank Derby, Brooklyn Boy and Finley Ross. He has been stopped and exposed, supposed owner and driver expelled, but he soon bobs up serenely at some other track under a new name and will probably continue so to do till the end of the season. In Germany or France the man would be arrested and the horse confiscated. They do things better there in such cases.

Gold Toothed Pacer. Meth Miller, 2:07, is probably the only pacer in the world that munches oats with a gold tooth. Dr. David Randall of New York, his owner, recently put a gold crown on one of the horse's nippers.

Story Told by the Bones. "He was probably a man of means, with a large family of daughters," the irreverent bystander commented as the skeleton was brought to view after having reposed for ages in the vault. "Why do you think so?" asked one of the scientific persons present. "Observe the skeleton," he replied. "See how much longer one of his legs was than the other."—Chicago Tribune.

WEAR OF THE EARTH

HOW THE FACE OF OUR GLOBE IS CONTINUALLY CHANGING.

Geological Agents That Are Always Busy In Nature's Great Workshop. Where Man Has Comparatively Little Influence.

The atmosphere plays its part in geological operations. Its corroding power, backed by rain and wind, helps to decay and disintegrate those rocks which are exposed to its influence. Rain completes the work thus begun. Wind blows dust, sand and volcanic ashes over large tracts of earth—in fact, over the whole of it.

It is only of late years that geologists have discovered that fine volcanic dust is carried over the whole of the earth's surface and plays a very important part in the deep sea deposits. On deserts and nearly rainless regions blown sand will wear away the hardest rocks by beating against them. Some sandstone formations appear to have been piled up by winds. Winds cause ocean currents, waves and storms. The great denuding power of the sea is largely due to the atmosphere. Some parts of the English coasts are being rapidly washed away. Plants and animals have their distribution considerably affected by winds and ocean currents. Again, whether living in water or on land, animals live on the oxygen supplied from the atmosphere, and land plants absorb carbonic acid from the same source.

Rain acts in two ways: (1) chemically by dissolving certain substances, such as lime, out of the rocks, and (2) mechanically by wearing down their surfaces as it flows over them. Any old building—a ruined castle or cathedral, for instance—shows a "weathered" surface resulting from the action of rain and wind. In sandstone structures the details of carving are often lost, and on old tombstones the lettering can hardly be deciphered. Springs are due to rainwater collecting in rocks and rising to the surface. Rivers are fed by rains and springs.

A river is a very powerful geological agent. In the hardest rocks rivers gradually carve out a valley or gorge. This is accomplished partly by chemically dissolving certain mineral substances, but chiefly by mechanical erosion, the stones, sand and mud wearing away the bed of a stream as they run and tumble over it.

The finest examples of river action are the famous canyons of Colorado, which in some places are gorges 5,000 or even 6,000 feet deep, with vertical sides. But, as already pointed out, rivers have a constructive action quite as important as their destructive action. By bringing down their burden of sediment into lakes, estuaries and seas they build up great piles of rock and "sow the dust of continents to be."

Glaciers are rivers of ice fed by the "eternal snows" of high mountain ranges such as the Alps. They wear out their own valleys as rivers do; they transport mud, sand and stones to great distances, in some cases sending them sealed up in icebergs to float far out to sea and on melting deposit their burdens on the sea floor. Off the coast of Newfoundland northern icebergs are depositing a great mass of "glacial drift."

The sea is a great denuding agent; but its work is more constructive than destructive. It is the workshop where nearly all the stratified rocks have been accumulated and ranged in layers or strata. The rivers and ocean currents continually bring in fresh supplies of debris even for hundreds of miles.

Man, compared with the lower animals, produces but little effect as a geological agent. Still the human race has considerably modified the distribution of plants by cutting down forests and by cultivating certain plants to supply food. So with animals. Certain useful species have been cultivated and enormously increased at the expense of others which prove useless or harmful.

But plants and animals have had, and still have, far more influence geologically. Coal seams are made up of vegetable remains of former periods. Forests have an important influence on climate and on animal as well as plant life. In the comparatively unknown world of the ocean marine plants doubtless have important functions.

Marine animals accomplish a vast amount of geological constructive work. Great deposits thousands of feet thick owe their existence to small calcareous creatures living in the sea. Coral reefs afford the most familiar illustration.

The force known as heat is of great importance. The earth is hotter below the surface and probably has a very high temperature toward its center. In some places not very far below its surface it contains highly heated rock, which occasionally flows over the surface during volcanic eruptions. In other places we find hot springs in connection with volcanic action. Heat exercises a powerful influence on rocks deeply buried below the earth's surface, chiefly by means of heated water and steam. In this way rocks have been very much altered or "metamorphosed." The crystalline schists have thus been brought to their present state by a series of chemical changes due to heat, and there is no doubt that they were once ordinary deposits of clay, sand, etc.—Hutchinson's "Autobiography of the Earth," the Appleton Company.

SOLDIERS TO WATCH,

While Filipinos Learn Self-Government, Recommends Chaffee.

OVER CONFIDENCE MAIN CAUSE

Recent Massacre on the Island of Samar—Causes He Assigns For Conditions in Areas Disturbed by Insurgents.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The war department made public the first annual report of Major General Adna R. Chaffee, military governor of the Philippine Islands. In part, General Chaffee sums up the situation in the Philippines from a military point of view by stating that the provinces of Batangas and Laguna, in Luzon, and the islands of Samar, Mindoro, Cebu and Bohol constitute the area now disturbed by any embodied force of insurgents. He says that to the physical character of the country, to the nature of the warfare of the rebels, who are amigro and foe in the self same hour, to the humanity of the troops, which is taken advantage of by the rebels and the inhabitants who sympathize with them, and to the fear of assassination on the part of the friendly disposed if they give information to the American forces, is due the prolongation of the guerilla warfare.

He recommends that there be no further material reduction of troops before January, 1903. The civil governments, which are being organized—provincial and municipal—General Chaffee says are both new and untried, and there is but one certain and reliable method of ascertaining the progress of the Filipinos in self-government, namely, observation of the army.

Recommends Permanent Post.

He recommends that a permanent post be constructed at once in the vicinity of Manila for a garrison of two squadrons of cavalry, two battalions of artillery, and two regiments of infantry, together with a hospital and storehouse, the whole to be under the command of a brigadier general. He gives $500,000 as a rough estimate of cost for this project, and says that $200,000 should be available immediately in order to take full advantage of the dry season. For the construction of permanent quarters at other points, which may be determined upon during the fiscal year ended June, 1903, he estimates $2,000,000 is required.

General Chaffee devotes a good part of his report to the terrible disaster which befell Company C, Ninth Infantry, at Balangiga, Samar, and which, he says, was "largely due to overconfidence in assumed pacified conditions, and in a people who are to a great extent as yet strangers to and unappreciative of our humane and personal liberty, beliefs and actions."

American soldiers, he says, fail to discriminate between real and assumed friendship on the part of the Filipinos.

A table is submitted showing that since June 10, last, the date of the last table submitted by General MacArthur, up to Sept. 15, 361 Filipino officers and 3,635 men surrendered to the American military, and 26 officers and 494 men were captured.

RICHES OR LOVE—WHICH WILL YOU HAVE?

By Mrs. FRANK LESLIE

Of course, to have both—that is, an unlimited amount of love and not too large an amount of money—is the ideal condition, but who possesses it or hopes for it? I am afraid we must concede that riches are inimical to love, that Plutus is the enemy rather than the ally of Eros and that millionaires, men and women, are not ideal lovers.

SHALL WE, THEN, ACCEPT THE OPPOSING THEORY THAT BREAD AND CHEESE AND KISSES ARE ENOUGH FOR LIFE and that sensible, well instructed twentieth century men and women trying on such a basis? thrive in palaces, is he and long lived in the roses around the win boughs and nothing in lar? Common sense de once sentiment finds MUST WE SAY, ERTY IS ALSO INIMICAL TO LOVE; that the goddess Poverty, celebrated by George Sand as one of the most desirable of the Parnassian royal family, is as little likely to abide comfortably with Eros as is her brother Plutus?

Two persons of sympathetic tastes, temper, habits and aims, marrying upon an income sufficient to gratify those tastes and habits and to continue the pursuits they have enjoyed before marriage, stand a far better chance for a happy life than if they were enormously wealthy or extremely poor.

Happiness lies in the middle region, sang the old Latin poet thousands of years ago, and nothing has been said since to supersede his utterance. Nothing is so desirable in its extreme as in its moderate phase, and most certainly this axiom applies to the substantial basis of married life.

GREAT SIX DAY RACE IN NEW YORK, DEC. 9-15.

Many Famous Foreign Riders to Push Pedals For Both Glory and Cash.

The annual six day cycle race will begin in Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 9. As it is an international event unusual interest is being manifested in the contest. The foreign teams which arrived on this side about two weeks ago are now applying the finishing touches to their training operations, and they are sure to give the American cracks a hard, fast fight for honors and cash.

The great continuous cycling carnival has become one of the most popular athletic features of the year, and huge crowds of enthusiasts flock to New York during its progress. The two months of inactivity following the close of the outdoor season have caused lovers of pedal pushing to consider themselves sufferers at the hands of fate. The six day contest, however, soothes their feelings, giving them a splendid opportunity to enjoy a feast of the cycle racing enthusiast's favorite pastime.

After a careful sizing up of the personnel and records of the European scorers the conclusion is reached that they require careful and serious consideration. Most of the men have appeared on American tracks before, and their ability consequently is more or less familiar to followers of racing. Other of the many chasers who have yet to make their initial appearance before the American public are said by authoritative persons to be of very dangerous caliber. So let our boys beware of the invaders.

The transatlantic speed merchants who have entered for the week's grind are as follows:

Gougoltz and Simar, France; Chevallier and Fisher, Switzerland; Muller and Le Poutre, Italy; De Roeck and Kerff, Belgium, and Frederick and Jaak, Germany.

Gougoltz and Simar. It will be remembered, were only a lap behind the winners last year and furnished considerable excitement throughout the week by their remarkable sprinting in an endeavor to shake off their fast flying opponents. Fisher and Chevallier took part in the 1899 race and created the sensation of the week by stealing the only laps gained in that manner throughout the battle. By furious well timed spurts they killed off one after another of their rivals. Muller rode here before, but with an incapable partner. This year his team mate is one of the best long distance men on the continent. Le Poutre is no stranger to the six day race either, having on several occasions astonished Europe by his stamina.

Frederick has frequently ridden in this country. He has a better partner than has ever before been the case. He and his mate, Hans Jaak, champion of Germany, will give their competitors a lively "run for the money." De Roeck and Kerff are two of the best cyclists ever produced in Belgium. They have excellent chances for victory.

A series of introductory races will be run off in Madison Square Garden Dec. 7, the Saturday night preceding the big event. These contests will serve as an appetizer for the six day racers. The preliminary meet will also serve to familiarize the public with the foreign riders.

The track, now in course of construction, will be banked to a height of about sixteen feet. Last summer's plank road course proved a source of danger to many cyclists, and the new "skimming dish" is planned to rise at an easier angle.

The Case of Frank Wilton, 2:09 1-4.

The most celebrated ring case of this year will come up at the December boards of both the National and the American Trotting associations. The real name of the horse is Frank Wilton, 2:09 1/4, who within the last eight weeks has raced in slow classes under the name of Ormus, Frank Derby, Brooklyn Boy and Finley Ross. He has been stopped and exposed, supposed owner and driver expelled, but he soon bobs up serenely at some other track under a new name and will probably continue so to do till the end of the season. In Germany or France the man would be arrested and the horse confiscated. They do things better there in such cases.

Gold Toothed Pacer.

Meth Miller, 2:07, is probably the only pacer in the world that munches oats with a gold tooth. Dr. David Randall of New York, his owner, recently put a gold crown on one of the horse's nippers.

Story Told by the Bones.

"He was probably a man of means, with a large family of daughters," the irreverent bystander commented as the skeleton was brought to view after having reposed for ages in the vault. "Why do you think so?" asked one of the scientific persons present. "Observe the skeleton," he replied. "See how much longer one of his legs was than the other."—Chicago Tribune.

Suited His Flock.

The Colonel—You only have to preach one sermon on Sunday, Uncle Micajah? I should think your congregation would insist on an evening sermon too.

Parson Micajah—Dat's co' de congregation has hern me preach, cunnel, an' yo' hain't.—Chicago Tribune.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

By Speaker Henderson in the House. Another Flood of New Bills, Among Them One for the Nicaraguan Canal's Construction.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The senate committee on foreign relations voted to report favorably the new Hay-Pauncefote treaty providing for the construction of an isthmian canal.

There was a large attendance on the floor when the house met, but there were few spectators in the galleries. After the reading and approval of the Journal, Mr. Gaines, who has just returned from the Philippines, appeared at the bar, where the oath of office was administered to him.

Speaker Henderson then announced the appointment of the following committees:

Ways and Means—Payne, New York; Dalzell, Pennsylvania; Hopkins, Illinois; Grosvenor, Ohio; Russell, Connecticut; Steele, Indiana; Tawney, Minnesota; McCall, Massachusetts; Long, Kansas; Babcock, Wisconsin; Metcalfe, California; Republicans. Richardson, Tennessee; Robinson, Louisiana; Swanson, Virginia; McClellan, New York; Newlands, Nevada; Cooper, Texas; Democrats.

Appropriations Committee.

Appropriations — Cannon, Illinois; Bingham, Pennsylvania; Hemingway, Indiana; Barney, Wisconsin; Moody, Massachusetts; Van Voorhis, Ohio; McCleary, Minnesota; Latta, New York; Brownlow, Tennessee; Gardner, Michigan; Burkett, Nebraska; Republicans. Livingston, Georgia; McRae, Arkansas; Bell, Colorado; Pierce, Tennessee; Benton, Missouri; Taylor, Alabama; Democrats. Enrolled Bills—Wachter, Maryland; Ball, Delaware; Burk, Pennsylvania; Curner, New Hampshire; Democrats.

publicans. Lloyd, Missouri; Edwards, Montana; Democrats. The house adjourned until Tuesday.

There was another flood of bills presented in the house, among them one by Congressman Hepburn providing for the construction of the Nicaragua canal by the United States. It is the same bill he introduced last year and follows closely the provisions of the new treaty.

A bill by Mr. Kahn, prohibiting the coming in and regulates the residence within the United States, its territories and possessions and the District of Columbia, of Chinese persons and persons of Chinese descent. Congressman Brownwell introduced a bill giving the franking privilege to Mrs. McKinley. Mr. Corliss introduced a bill providing for an international commission to establish the level of the great lakes.

Mr. Taylor of Ohio, introduced the bill giving Mrs. McKinley an annual pension of $5,000.

The senate committee on the judiciary authorized a favorable report on the nomination of the Hon. P. C. Knox to be attorney general. Opposition to confirmation is made by the Anti-Trust League, which has filed a protest with the committee, in which special complaint is made that Mr. Knox failed to bring certain suits against organizations said to be trusts which he was urged by the league to institute. The committee considered this document at some length, but concluded that the president should be allowed to choose his own advisers, he being responsible for them. The vote for a favorable report was unanimous.

TO HONOR M'KINLEY'S MEMORY.

A Bill Introduced to Create a National Park to Bear His Name.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Congressman Brownlow, of Tennessee, paid a handsome tribute to the memory of the late President McKinley by the introduction of a bill to create the McKinley National Park and Forest Reserve, of four million acres of timber land in the Appalachian range in the states of Tennessee, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, at a cost of $10,000,000.

"President McKinley, when alive, was an ardent advocate of this park," said Congressman Brownlow. "The south reveres and loves his memory because he did more than any other man to unite this country. That is why they want me to introduce this bill, creating the McKinley National park, in grateful remembrance of the man."

COL. MEADE ACQUITTED

BY COURT MARTIAL.

Washington, Dec. 7.—It is announced at the navy department that the court martial in the case of Robert L. Meade, of the marine corps, who was tried on the charge of drunkenness, has resulted in his acquittal.

and he has been restored to duty at the Brooklyn navy yard.

TO PERMIT CONGRESS TO TAX CORPORATIONS.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Representative Crumpacker, of Indiana, introduced a bill in the house, providing for an amendment to the constitution permitting congress to tax the capital stock and earnings of corporations.

Southern Member Retaliated.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The proposition of Mr. Moody, of Massachusetts, for a congressional investigation of the right of Louisiana members of congress to hold their seats, drew a rejoinder from Representative Fleming, of Georgia, who presented a resolution for the investigation of the right of the Massachusetts members of congress to hold their seats.

Against Gathmann Gun.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The report of the mixed army and navy board, headed by Major Knight, corps of engineers, appointed under the terms of an act of congress to test the Gathmann gun, has been laid before congress by Secretary Root. It is against the Gathmann gun. The 12-inch army service rifle is praised.

Reduces Southern Representation.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Representative Crumpacker, of Indiana, has introduced a bill for an amendment to the apportionment act so that the membership of the house of representatives will be 372. The representation is based on the vote cast instead of population. It reduces the representation in the southern states and makes increases in northern states.

Depot and Mill Office Robbed.

Wilmington, O., Dec. 7.—Three masked men broke in the door of the Baltimore and Ohio depot, bound the operator, R. D. Walm, rifled his pockets of $9.50 and took $29.55 from the company's cash drawer. The robbers then entered the office of Langdon's flouring mill, across the street from the station, blew the safe and secured $50 and escaped.

MAN SENTENCED FOR INDUCING GIRL TO STEAL.

Kansas City, Dec. 7.—Walter Cavanaugh, who induced his sweetheart, Daisy Wheeler, a 7-year-old girl, to steal $1,200 in pension money from her widowed mother and flee with him to Chicago, was found guilty in the criminal court here and given a five-years' penitentiary sentence. In Chicago Cavanaugh was robbed of the money, and later the couple were arrested there. The girl was given a reform school sentence, but was paroled after the judge had addressed a lecture.

HIS NOSE WAS SAFE.

But His Nerves Were In a State of Cold Chill Collapse.

"I was sitting on the veranda of a far western hotel one afternoon," said the Boston drummer, "and was lazily smoking one of the nicest meerschaum pipes you ever saw when out of the tail of my eye I saw that a native down at the other end of the veranda had his gun sighted at me. They were a wild lot around there, and I couldn't tell whether he meant to shoot me or the pipe. The chances were in favor of the pipe, however, and it seemed a good chance to test my nerve. I made up my mind to let him shoot and to pretend a careless air, but I'm telling you in the ten or fifteen seconds of waiting the sweat came out at every pore and my heart pounded my ribs sore. I felt a sort of tick at the bowl of the pipe, heard the crack of the gun and knew that the bullet had passed through the pipe. I got a brace with my hands and feet and waited for a second bullet, and it went through the bowl after the first. I sat there until his fourth bullet had hit the pipe and knocked the bowl off the stem, and then the shooter sauntered up to me and laughingly said:

"Excuse me, stranger, but I thought it was imitation."
"Same as you are," I replied.
"My gibe hurt him, but he was man enough to tell everybody about my nerve, and the boys chipped in sufficient nuggets to buy me this fifty dollar smoker. Say, do you know what happened to me when I made an excuse to go up stairs after my old corn-cob? I had no sooner got into my room than my knees gave out, chills galloped up my spine, and I'll be hanged if I didn't faint away and lie there for ten minutes. It had suddenly occurred to me that the bowl of that pipe was only six inches from my nose while the fellow was doing his shooting, and I have not yet got over touching my nasal organ now and then to see if it is safe."

And He Felt Injured.

Bill Borrower—I'm in a deuced hole. Tom. If you can, I wish you would help me out.

Tom Wiggins—I'll help you any way I can, but don't ask me again to put my name on the back of your note.

Bill Borrower (injured)—I wasn't going to ask you for your credit, Tom. I was only looking for a little cash.—New York Times.

Where Danger Lies.

"I want to be famous," said the boy. "Well, you'll have to be mighty careful," answered the father. "There are more people who make fools of themselves trying to be famous than in any other way."—Chicago Post

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

By Speaker Henderson in the House. Another Flood of New Bills, Among Them One for the Nicaraguan Canal's Construction.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The senate committee on foreign relations voted to report favorably the new Hay-Pauncefote treaty providing for the construction of an isthmian canal.

There was a large attendance on the floor when the house met, but there were few spectators in the galleries. After the reading and approval of the Journal, Mr. Gaines, who has just returned from the Philippines, appeared at the bar, where the oath of office was administered to him.

Speaker Henderson then announced the appointment of the following committees:

Ways and Means—Payne, New York; Daize, Pennsylvania; Hopkins, Illinois; Grosvenor, Ohio; Russell, Connecticut; Steele, Indiana; Tawney, Minnesota; McCall, Massachusetts; Long, Kansas; Babcock, Wisconsin; Metcalfe, California; Republicans. Richardson, Tennessee; Robertson, Louisiana; Swanson, Virginia; McClellan, New York; Newlands, Nevada; Cooper, Texas; Democrats.

Appropriations Committee.

Appropriations—Cannon, Illinois; Bingham, Pennsylvania; Hemingway, Indiana; Barney, Wisconsin; Moody, Massachusetts; Van Voorhis, Ohio; McCleary, Minnesota; Latta, New York; Brownlow, Tennessee; Gardner, Michigan; Burkett, Nebraska; Republicans. Livingston, Georgia; McRae, Arkansas; Bell, Colorado; Pierce, Tennessee; Benton, Missouri; Taylor, Alabama; Democrats.

Enrolled Bills—Wachter, Maryland; Ball, Delaware; Burk, Pennsylvania; Currier, New Hampshire; Democrats.

publicans. Lloyd, Missouri; Edwards, Montana, Democrats.

The house adjourned until Tuesday.

There was another flood of bills presented in the house, among them one by Congressman Hepburn providing for the construction of the Nicaragua canal by the United States. It is the same bill he introduced last year and follows closely the provisions of the new treaty.

A bill by Mr. Kahn, prohibiting the coming in and regulates the residence within the United States, its territories and possessions and the District of Columbia, of Chinese persons and persons of Chinese descent.

Congressman Brownwell introduced a bill giving the franking privilege to Mrs. McKinley. Mr. Corliss introduced a bill providing for an international commission to establish the level of the great lakes.

Mr. Taylor of Ohio, introduced the bill giving Mrs. McKinley an annual pension of $5,000.

The senate committee on the judiciary authorized a favorable report on the nomination of the Hon. P. C. Knox to be attorney general. Opposition to confirmation is made by the Anti-Trust League, which has filed a protest with the committee, in which special complaint is made that Mr. Knox failed to bring certain suits against organizations said to be trusts which he was urged by the league to institute. The committee considered this document at some length, but concluded that the president should be allowed to choose his own advisers, he being responsible for them. The vote for a favorable report was unanimous.

TO HONOR M'KINLEY'S MEMORY.

A Bill Introduced to Create a National Park to Bear His Name.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Congressman Brownlow, of Tennessee, paid a handsome tribute to the memory of the late President McKinley by the introduction of a bill to create the McKinley National Park and Forest Reserve, of four million acres of timber land in the Appalachian range in the states of Tennessee, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, at a cost of $10,000,000.

"President McKinley, when alive, was an ardent advocate of this park," said Congressman Brownlow. "The south reveres and loves his memory because he did more than any other man to unite this country. That is why they want me to introduce this bill, creating the McKinley National park, in grateful remembrance of the man."

COL. MEADE ACQUITTED BY COURT MARTIAL.

Washington, Dec. 7.—It is announced at the navy department that the court martial in the case of Robert L. Meade, of the marine corps, who was tried on the charge of drunkenness, has resulted in his acquittal.

and he has been restored to duty at the Brooklyn navy yard.

TO PERMIT CONGRESS TO TAX CORPORATIONS.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Representative Crumpacker, of Indiana, introduced a bill in the house, providing for an amendment to the constitution permitting congress to tax the capital stock and earnings of corporations.

Southern Member Retaliated.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The proposition of Mr. Moody, of Massachusetts, for a congressional investigation of the right of Louisiana members of congress to hold their seats, drew a rejoinder from Representative Fleming, of Georgia, who presented a resolution for the investigation of the right of the Massachusetts members of congress to hold their seats.

Against Gathmann Gun.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The report of the mixed army and navy board, headed by Major Knight, corps of engineers, appointed under the terms of an act of congress to test the Gathmann gun, has been laid before congress by Secretary Root. It is against the Gathmann gun. The 12-inch army service rifle is praised.

Reduces Southern Representation.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Representative Crumpacker, of Indiana, has introduced a bill for an amendment to the apportionment act so that the membership of the house of representatives will be 372. The representation is based on the vote cast instead of population. It reduces the representation in the southern states and makes increases in northern states.

Depot and Mill Office Robbed.

Wilmington, O., Dec. 7.—Three masked men broke in the door of the Baltimore and Ohio depot, bound the operator, R. D. Walm, rifed his pockets of $9.50 and took $20.55 from the company's cash drawer. The robbers then entered the office of Langdon's flouring mill, across the street from the station, blew the safe and secured $50 and escaped.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Anti-Trust Measures Introduced.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Several anti-trust measures were presented to the house. One of them, by Mr. Ball, of Texas, proposes the appointment of a special committee of nine representatives to report an anti-trust bill.

Mrs. Roosevelt Returned.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the city last night from her visit to New York. She brought her young son Archibald with her.

MAN SENTENCED FOR INDUCING GIRL TO STEAL.

Kansas City, Dec. 7.—Walter Cavanaugh, who induced his sweetheart, Daisy Wheeler, a 7-year-old girl, to steal $1,200 in pension money from her widowed mother and flee with him to Chicago, was found guilty in the criminal court here and given a five-year penitentiary sentence. In Chicago Cavanaugh was robbed of the money, and later the couple were arrested there. The girl was given a reform school sentence, but was paroled after the judge had addressed a lecture.

HIS NOSE WAS SAFE.

But His Nerves Were in a State of Cold Chill Collapse.

"I was sitting on the veranda of a far western hotel one afternoon," said the Boston drummer, "and was lazily smoking one of the nicest meerschaum pipes you ever saw when out of the tail of my eye I saw that a native down at the other end of the veranda had his gun sighted at me. They were a wild lot around there, and I couldn't tell whether he meant to shoot me or the pipe. The chances were in favor of the pipe, however, and it seemed a good chance to test my nerve. I made up my mind to let him shoot and to pretend a careless air, but I'm telling you in the ten or fifteen seconds of waiting the sweat came out at every pore and my heart pounded my ribs sore. (Continued from First Page.)

are a few more yet outside. It is expected they will all be in by Christmas, at which time they will be formed into a union of their own.

The differences existing in the plant of the New Castle Pottery company have not all been settled by the arbitration committee. The question of fining the ware was settled by the firm paying an extra 10 per cent. The kiln question has not yet been settled, as the committee are waiting for fuller information on the subject.

Between 50 and 60 girls in this shop are following in the footsteps of the girls of this city and have formed a local union of the N. B. of O. P.

The girls in the biscuit warehouse have been laid off at the pottery in Tiffin. The kiln hands have been idle for over a week on account of the shortage of coal for the firing of kilns, and the clay shops are well filled and short of room and don't expect to do much more than to fill out this week. If coal does not arrive in the meantime there will be a shut down very likely before the holidays and some of the Tiffin girls will be short of presents.

Work at the Shenango China company's works at New Castle is progressing rapidly. A large majority of the molds and sagers are already made. The boiler is already placed, as well as a good part of the slip house machinery. It is expected to be in operation the first week in the new year.

A number of minor repairs and alterations are being made at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles pottery. They will be finished by the first of the year and will add materially to the convenience of employees.

Lining is being placed in the second kiln at the Electric Porcelain works. The sagger makers' room has been fitted up and men were given employment in that department this week.

are a few more yet outside. It is expected they will all be in by Christmas, at which time they will be formed into a union of their own.

The differences existing in the plant of the New Castle Pottery company have not all been settled by the arbitration committee. The question of flinting the ware was settled by the firm paying an extra 10 per cent. The kiln question has not yet been settled, as the committee are waiting for fuller information on the subject.

Between 50 and 60 girls in this shop are following in the footsteps of the girls of this city and have formed a local union of the N. B. of O. P.

The girls in the biscuit warehouse have been laid off at the pottery in Tiffin. The kiln hands have been idle for over a week on account of the shortage of coal for the firing of kilns, and the clay shops are well filled and short of room and don't expect to do much more than to fill out this week. If coal does not arrive in the meantime there will be a shut down very likely before the holidays and some of the Tiffin girls will be short of presents.

Work at the Shenango China company's works at New Castle is progressing rapidly. A large majority of the molds and saggars are already made. The boiler is already placed, as well as a good part of the slip house machinery. It is expected to be in operation the first week in the new year.

A number of minor repairs and alterations are being made at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles pottery. They will be finished by the first of the year and will add materially to the convenience of employees.

Lining is being placed in the second kiln at the Electric Porcelain works. The sagger makers' room has been fitted up and men were given employment in that department this week.

Al Webber, kiln placer at Harker's, is off duty on account of sickness.

The Necessity of Salt.

Although in treaties on dietetics salt figures as a condiment, it is universally recognized to be something more; indeed it is an indispensable element of the food of man and animals. A well known authority asserts, says The Medical Press and Circular, that whenever the annual consumption of salt falls below twenty pounds per head of population the public health is likely to suffer. The deprivation of salt does not produce a definite disease, but reduces the vitality of the organism as a whole, so that the victims of administrative measures which restrict the consumption of salt more readily fall prey to prevailing epidemics, as well as to endemic maladies.

CHILDREN OF LONG AGO.

The Etiquette They Were Taught in the Eighteenth Century.

The "polite academy" does not confine itself to purely ethical considerations. The minutest directions are given as to polite behavior under all sorts of circumstances:

"Take salt with a saltspoon or else with a clean knife, not with that you are eating with, for that will foul the rest."

"Do not laugh at table, much less sneeze, cough or yawn; but if you cannot avoid it hold up the napkin or tablecloth before your face and turn aside from the table."

"When you drink, bow to some one of the company and say sir or madam."

"Never regard what another has on his plate. It looks as if you wanted it."

"If you have occasion to laugh, turn from the company."

"Always look pleased, but not merry unless there is occasion."

Now as to the deportment of a young master:

"Let your feet be placed at a small distance from one another, not too close nor too wide in spreading."

"Put one hand easy and free into the bosom of your waistcoat and the other under the flap of it."

"Do not button more than the three lowest buttons of your waistcoat that your hand may not be raised too high."

"Do not thrust your hand into your breeches as vulgar boys do, but let it fall with ease under the flap of your waistcoat."

To face this page there is a beautiful "copper cut" of a young master in the easy and elegant attitude recommended, and truly "there is a great deal of sweetness in his looks."

This delightful volume was published by R. Baldwin at the Rose in Paternoster row and B. Collins in Salisbury 1765.—Longman's Magazine.

KITCHEN HELPS.

To clean a greasy sink a little paraffin oil, rubbed on with a piece of flannel, will save a great deal of trouble.

Ordinary tea marks on china may be readily dissolved by scrubbing with a soft brush dipped in salt water and vinegar.

If new tinware is rubbed over with fresh lard and thoroughly heated in the oven before it is used, it will never rust afterward, no matter how much it is put in water.

A good way to clean zinc utensils is to dip a piece of cotton in kerosene and rub the articles with it until the dirt is removed. Dry afterward with a clean cloth so as to get rid of all grease.

For stained tinware borax produces the best results. If the teapot or coffee-pot is discolored on the inside, boil it in a strong solution of borax for a short time, and all its brightness will return.

Pans and kettles partly filled with water should not be placed on the range to soak, as it only makes them harder to clean. They should be filled with cold water and be kept away from the heat.

WU IS DENOUNCED

In Resolutions Presented at the American Federation of Labor Meeting.

A VERY GOOD ATTENDANCE

Able Address of Edward F. McSweeney,
Commissioner of Immigration.
He Gives the Delegates Much Valuable And Interesting Information.Scranton, Pa., Dec. 7.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor disposed of considerable routine business. Two sessions were held. The afternoon meeting yesterday was adjourned an hour earlier
so that the committees which were announced by President Gompers could organize and take up the work
that has been laid out for them.
There was a full attendance of delegates and business was transacted
without a hitch or much discussion, except in the matter of a contested seat of a St. Louis delegate. This,
however, did not amount to much,
although the discussion was quite lengthy. The overshadowing feature of the day yesterday was the able address of Edward F. McSweeney, deputy commissioner of immigration at the port of New York, on the subject of immigration. He spoke for more than an hour and was generously applauded for the great amount of information that he gave the delegates.
During the course of the two sessions
88 resolutions were presented and referred to committees. They cover nearly every variety of subjects that affect workmen. One of them contained a denunciation of Wu Ting
Fang, the Chinese minister, for an alleged derogatory remark against the American people, and another conveyed the "sincere and hearty thanks" of the Federation of Labor to President Roosevelt for the position he took in the message to congress on the question of Chinese exclusion. The committee on credentials made another report on contested seats at the afternoon session and their recommendations were accepted except in one instance. There remained but two contests to be acted upon, and they were postponed at the request of the parties interested.

TOWN UNDER MARTIAL LAW.

Troops Sent For Fear of Lynchings
of Negro Murderers, in Alabama.Andalusia, Ala., Dec. 7.—The governor sent troops last night to aid Sheriff Bradshaw in protecting the negro rioters in jail here, and the town is under martial law. The sheriff is fearing an attack at any moment
by a mob from Opp and is prepared to protect his prisoners at all hazards.
Three negroes, names unknown,
were caught and killed by a posse of citizens near Opp yesterday for alleged implication in the riot and the whole country is in arms against the negroes.

WOMAN COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Man In Dying Condition From Shooting Himself.Reading, Pa., Dec. 7.—Mary Irwin, of Malvern, Chester county, died in a hospital here last night of laudanum poisoning and Knauer Amole, of Coatesville, is in a dying condition
at the same institution, having shot himself when he discovered that Miss Irwin had taken poison. The woman was 40 years of age and Amole 48
years.The pair were stopping at the hotel and Miss Irwin did not leave her room yesterday morning. She was found unconscious by Amole, who notified one of the hotel attendants.
Immediately afterward he shot himself in the head. Both he and the woman were hastened to the hospital,
where Miss Irwin died without regaining consciousness. The bullet was extracted from Amole's head, but his condition last night was regarded as critical.

Bound to Sound Their "H."

The English middle classes have had so much fun poked at them for dropping the letter "h" and for carrying it forward and placing it where it should not be, possibly thus to obey the laws of compensation, that they have become sensitive on the subject, and many aspire to the "h" with double force when the letter should be aspirated. Instead of saying "before him,"
as Americans do, with a light aspiration, they will say "before him," taking a full and deep breath when they utter
the second word, shooting it out as if it came from a popgun. Dropping the
"h" is not new for ordinary English folk. It is a new trick to aspirate it with double the force required.—New

Amateur Billiard Championship.

The Knickerbocker Athletic club of New York city has applied to the Amateur Athletic union for the privilege of holding the class A tourney for the amateur billiard championship of America, which will be held under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic union in the Knickerbocker Athletic club theater. The date fixed for this important event is Feb. 10, 1902.The company manners of her husband and sons are one of the greatest trials in a woman's life, and that of her daughters her greatest comfort.FOR SECRET CONTRIBUTIONS TO M'KINLEY FUND.Cleveland, Dec. 7.—L. H. Jones, superintendent of the Cleveland public schools, has devised a plan for receiving contributions from pupils to the McKinley national memorial fund that has received the hearty approval
of the officials of the national association. It is pointed out that in the schools attended alike by the children of rich and poor public offerings often cause suffering to sensitive pupils. Mr. Jones' plan is for a secret contribution.RELEASE OF MISS STONE AND MRS. TSILKA IMPENDING.London, Dec. 7.—A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Sofia says that the surrender at Salonika of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, and her companion, Mme. Tsilka, is impending.

wife and two daughters, made the trip from New Orleans around the nounced that the alleged shortage of former Secretary John M. Mulford, of the American Insurance Union, amounting to $4,000, had been made good by National President John J.

Lentz and other officers of the union.
Mulford is under bond awaiting ac-

A BUDDING HUMORIST.

Merry Memories of a First Meeting
With Artemus Ward.On going into the Cleveland Plain Dealer editorial rooms one morning I saw a new man, who was introduced to me as Mr. Browne.He was young, cheerful in manner, tall and slender, not quite up to date in style of dress, yet by no means shabby. His hair was flaxen and very straight; his nose, the prominent feature of his face, was Romanesque—quite violently so—and with a leaning to the left. His eyes were blue gray, with a twinkle in them; his mouth seemed so given to a merry laugh, so much in motion, that it was difficult to describe.It seemed as though bubbling in him was a lot of happiness which he made no effort to conceal or hold back.
When we were introduced, he was sitting at his table writing. He gave his leg a smart slap, arose, shook hands with me and said he was glad to meet me. I believed him, for he looked glad all the time. You could not look at him but he would laugh. He laughed as he sat at his table writing. When he had written a thing which pleased him, he would slap his leg and laugh.I noticed that George Hoyt and James Brokenshire at their tables were pleased with his merriment and indulged in broad smiles. As I bade him and the others good morning he said,
"Come again, me liege." I thanked him, said I would and went my way, thinking what a funny fellow he was.Within a month thereafter appeared in the columns of The Plain Dealer a funny letter signed "Artemus Ward."
The writer said he was in the show business, had a trained kangaroo, "a most amosin' little cuss," some "snaks" and a collection of wax figures, which he called a "great moral show." As he was coming to Cleveland to exhibit, he made a proposition to the proprietor that they "scratch each other's backs"—the publisher to write up the show vigorously and the showman to have the handbills printed at his office and give him free tickets for all his family. So I found my young friend of the gurgles and hay colored hair to be an embryo humorist just bursting into bloom. Artemus, as from that time he was best known, soon had a city full of friends, myself and family among them.—James F.

OHIO GIRL IN JAIL.

Ohio.

MARK OF BLOW ON THE HEAD.

Body Also Buried—Already Prepared

Clothes—Alleged Murderess Would Not Allow Shroud Put On.Fort Wayne, Ind., Dec. 7.—Ida
Cheney, a young woman of Payne, O., 15 miles east of Fort Wayne, is in jail at that place on a charge of murdering the 6-year-old daughter of George Franklin, a farmer. The Cheney woman has been Franklin's housekeeper since the death of his wife, three years ago. Friday of last week Ida reported that the child had been seized with convulsions while alone in the house and had died. When the neighbors went to the Franklin home they found the little corpse already prepared for burial in ordinary clothing.They wanted to put on a shroud, but the housekeeper would not consent, and as the father agreed, the child was buried. The matter came to the knowledge of the prosecuting attorney, who had the remains exhumed by the coroner. The body was found to be badly bruised and on the skull was the mark of a blow sufficient to have caused a fatal concussion. The Cheney woman was immediately arrested for murder and is now in jail.

total loss will be about $135,000. A spark from a broken electric light wire in one of the show windows of the dry goods store is said to have started the fire.

Columbus, O., Dec. 7.—Attorney General Sheets filed a petition in the Franklin county court against the Merchants' Electric Light and Power company, of Coshocton; the American Sheet Steel company and the American Tin Plate company, to enforce the penalty for failing to qualify as foreign corporations under the laws of Ohio. He asks from the Electric Light and Power company $30,500;
from the sheet steel company, $20,000 and from the tin plate company, $35, and shrubs. On this account every Habits of Seals.

The habits of seals are very interest-

the water daily on her fin and dumps floundering about places him on her fin again and returns to her camp.

When the young seals are well grown, they suddenly disappear with their mothers and the bull seals. No one knows where they go, and their return is equally as sudden as their departure.
The bulls are the first to put in an appearance at the camping ground.
When they arrive, they commence at once to prepare a camp for their mates, which they stake off, and for which they fight until they die. In the meantime the female seals remain quite a distance from land, floating lazily on the water and seemingly having a good time.

WU IS DENOUNCED

In Resolutions Presented at the American Federation of Labor Meeting.

A VERY GOOD ATTENDANCE

Able Address of Edward F. McSweny,
Commissioner of Immigration.
He Gives the Delegates Much Valuable And Interesting Information.

Seranton, Pa., Dec. 7.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor disposed of considerable routine business. Two sessions were held. The afternoon meeting yesterday was adjourned an hour earlier
so that the committees which were announced by President Gompers
could organize and take up the work
that has been laid out for them.
There was a full attendance of delegates and business was transacted
without a hitch or much discussion,
except in the matter of a contested
seat of a St. Louis delegate. This,
however, did not amount to much,
although the discussion was quite
lengthy. The overshadowing feature of the day yesterday was the able address of Edward F. McSweny, deputy commissioner of immigration at the port of New York, on the subject of immigration. He spoke for more than an hour and was generously applauded for the great amount of information that he gave the delegates.
During the course of the two sessions
88 resolutions were presented and referred to committees. They cover
nearly every variety of subjects that affect workmen. One of them contained a denunciation of Wu Ting
Fang, the Chinese minister, for an alleged derogatory remark against the American people, and another conveyed the "sincere and hearty
thanks" of the Federation of Labor to President Roosevelt for the position he took in the message to congress on the question of Chinese exclusion. The committee on credentials made another report on contested seats at the afternoon session and their recommendations were accepted except in one instance. There remained but two contests to be acted upon, and they were postponed at the request of the parties interested.

TOWN UNDER MARTIAL LAW.

Troops Sent For Fear of Lynchings
of Negro Murderers, in Alabama.

Andalusia, Ala., Dec. 7.—The governor sent troops last night to aid
Sheriff Bradshaw in protecting the negro rioters in jail here, and the town is under martial law. The sheriff is fearing an attack at any moment
by a mob from Opp and is prepared to protect his prisoners at all hazards.

Three negroes, names unknown,
were caught and killed by a posse of
citizens near Opp yesterday for alleged implication in the riot and the whole country is in arms against the negroes.

WOMAN COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Man in Dying Condition From Shooting Himself.

Reading, Pa., Dec. 7.—Mary Irwin, of Malvern, Chester county, died in a hospital here last night of laudanum
poisoning and Knauer Amole, of Coatesville, is in a dying condition
at the same institution, having shot himself when he discovered that Miss Irwin had taken poison. The woman was 40 years of age and Amole 48
years.

The pair were stopping at the hotel and Miss Irwin did not leave her room yesterday morning. She was found unconscious by Amole, who notified one of the hotel attendants.
Immediately afterward he shot himself in the head. Both he and the woman were hastened to the hospital,
where Miss Irwin died without regaining consciousness. The bullet was extracted from Amole's head, but his condition last night was regarded as critical.

Bound to Sound Their "H."

The English middle classes have had
so much fun poked at them for dropping the letter "h" and for carrying it forward and placing it where it should not be, possibly thus to obey the laws
of compensation, that they have become sensitive on the subject, and many aspirate the "h" with double force when the letter should be aspirated. Instead of saying "before him,"
as Americans do, with a light aspiration, they will say "before him," taking a full and deep breath when they utter
the second word, shooting it out as if it came from a popgun. Dropping the
"h" is not new for ordinary English
folk. It is a new trick to aspirate it with double the force required.—New

that has received the hearty approval
of the officials of the national association. It is pointed out that in the

of New Orleans, has reached Zanesville, after having stranded at the mouth of the Ohio canal for many weeks. Captain Deming, with his wife and two daughters, made the

DISEASED LUNGS.

How Consumption Begins, How It Ends, How Cured.

Consumption—the most dreaded of all diseases of today—is curable. For centuries this fearful malady has stared the people in the face, with no hope, no haven of refuge, no relief to turn to, but now—science has made sufficient strides to be able to cope intelligently with all the various forms of pulmonary affections.

Few people realize what anatomical wonders the lungs are. Just imagine two great sacks, one consisting of two and the other of three lobes or compartments each made of a delicate membranous substance as light and thin as a piece of silk, expanding and contracting as we inhale and exhale the air that supplies life.

No one appreciating the work expected of them would abuse his lungs if he could look at them and see with his own eyes the effect produced. The lungs are almost like paper—mere tissues—that are susceptible to the least aggravation. A cold, though ever so slight if on the lungs, weakens them. A cough, though only occasional, means a rasping at these precious organs, a sore (result of colds and coughs) means an irritation that is hard to heal. When aggravated and it reaches an advanced stage, the lungs shrivel up and wither away. Consumption invariably begins in the upper part of the right lung.

Coughing does not always accompany diseases of this character, and consumptives sometimes go to their grave with little annoyance in this direction and little expectation. Their lungs, like an apple in the sun, simply waste away and fall to pieces. If a flower becomes lifeless and droops its head, you give it nourishment, water and sunlight. Your lungs are just like a plant, they need nourishment continually. Your blood flows through every part of them and gives them life. It soothes and heals them, keeps them fresh and healthy. If your blood possesses the right nourishment, it makes your lungs so strong that germs can't live in them, for germs only live where there is weakness. You must have proper medical assistance and you must also have sunlight, plenty of rest, plenty of out-door air and good food. The first has always been hard to get but the other requirements are within the reach of anyone. There is a medicine, a famous French compound, a remedy originated, experimented with and agreed upon by celebrated chemists from all over the world, who met in Paris a few years ago to determine the most speedy, sure and lasting way of wiping out of the world consumption and its allied diseases. This medicine is known as "Blood Wine," and it is acknowledged by physicians in New York and Boston to be the most satisfactory treatment yet devised for these troubles. "Blood Wine," will do its part—but the patient must do his to overcome pulmonary attacks. All the rules of hygiene must be strictly adhered to and if this is done a cure excepting when consumption is in the most advanced stages, will be the result. "Blood Wine" is an honest remedy. It is sold on honest representations and is guaranteed to do all claimed for it. "Blood Wine" enriches the blood and charges it with an ingredient that will kill bacilli, bacteria, microbes and germs of all kinds. It will heal up an old sore on the lungs or a new one. It will take the lameness and pains out of the lungs, and make them feel strong and comfortable. If you can't take a deep breath now, you can after using "Blood Wine."

If you hawk and spit you will stop after using it a week or so. If you take colds easily—"Blood Wine" will make you less susceptible and eventually it will give you great endurance. "Blood Wine" is not an experiment. It is an established fact, tried, proved and acknowledged to be a remarkable remedy. Throughout the hospitals, public dispensaries and in their private practice physicians are unanimous in their praises of "Blood Wine," all admit that while there are some cases too far advanced to be actually cured that it will cure in almost every instance and restore health and vitality, where every other method will fail. Dr. Brainard A. Andrews of Beaumont, Boston, Mass., one of New England's leading practitioners, whose skill has been displayed on a number of occasions before Harvard College and other learned bodies, says: "At the best, Tuberculosis is a stubborn disease and requires rigid methods to overcome. In the matter of handling it everything is being done both here and abroad to make it more easily and successfully treated, and new ideas are being advanced almost every day by men giving their constant thought. I am familiar with "Blood Wine" in every phase, and have been using it extensively in my practice of late with phenomenal results. It creates a peculiar reaction that nothing else seems to do. It relieves the distress sooner and more effectively than any expectorant I know of and is adhered to with common sense rules of life—regarding exercise, air and diet it will heal a very bad case of Tuberculosis and enable the patient to thoroughly recover. I am a thoroughly disinterested person, having no connection one way or another with the "Blood Wine" Co., or any of its members. I give this testimonial of my own free will because I recognize in it a good medicine, which everyone should know about, and which I will continue to recommend until I find something better."

If you have tried repeatedly to regain your health without success with other medicines or means don't give up hope until you try "Blood Wine." Investigate it carefully.

"Blood Wine" costs fifty cents a bottle, but you can sample it free of charge at Will Reed's and Hodson's drug stores.

NEXT.... A GREAT Northwestern Exposition

When William Cullen Bryant wrote in "Thanatopsis"—

Loose thyself in the continuous woods
Where rolls the Oregon and hears no sound Save his own dashings—

the superlative of solitude and remoteness was the idea he sought to convey. Indeed when the poem was written in 1811 imagination could hardly have pictured a region more inaccessible and further remote from civilized habitation than the unmapped northwestern territory between the headwaters of the Missouri river and the Pacific ocean.

It was only a few years before—six years, to be precise—that the intrepid explorers Captain Meriwether Lewis and Captain William Clark and their heroic little band of followers made the first incursion into the boundless wilderness. The foot of white man had not before pressed this virgin soil, though in 1792 Captain Robert Gray, with a Boston ship on a voyage around the world, entered the "great river of the west" and named it from his vessel the Columbia.

LOWER HARBOR, PORTLAND, OR.

The United States interpreted Captain Gray's exploration of the river as giving under the law of nations governing the rights of discovery a claim to the whole valley of the river, but for so vast a region there was needed the claim of further exploration and occupation, which came in good time. It was doubtless to make good this claim of discovery and perhaps to connect it with the Louisiana purchase, effected in 1803, that congress, upon the recommendation of President Jefferson, authorized the Lewis and Clark expedition.

This expedition, the record of which forms one of the most interesting and thrilling, though perhaps least familiar, chapters of American history, started from St. Louis in the middle of May, 1804, proceeding up the Missouri river. Forty-five persons in three row-boats comprised the party. After 171 days the year's advance ended with October, when the river began to freeze, checking their farther progress. Winter quarters, where they were detained about five months, were established thirty miles above the Bismarck of our day. The distance up stream they reckoned at 1,600 miles. They had traveled a little more than nine miles a day, a journey now made by rail in forty-four hours.

Early in April, 1805, the explorers, now numbering thirty-two, again began to urge their boats up the river. Through the great lone land they groped their dark and perilous way. In twenty days after the spring start they reached the Yellowstone, and in thirty more they sighted the Rocky mountains, still far in the distance. Making the portage at the Great falls cost them a month's perplexing delay. Telling on another month brought them on Aug. 12 to a point where Captain Lewis stood with one foot on each side of the rivulet and "thanked God that he had lived to bestride the mighty Missouri, heretofore deemed endless." They dragged their canoes, however, five days longer. It was 460 days since they left the mouth of the river, and their mileage on its waters had been 3,000. A mile farther they stood on the great divide and drank from springs that sent their waters to the Pacific.

Obtaining horses and a guide from the Shoshone Indians, they traveled through the mountains until the latter part of September, when they entered the plains of the western slope. Early in October they were able to embark in logs that they had burned hollow upon a branch of the Columbia river, which, after manifold portages and perils, bore them to its mouth and the goal of their long and hazardous pilgrimage late in November, 1805, over eighteen months from the time the party left St. Louis, during which they had covered over 4,000 miles.

It is the one hundredth anniversary of this achievement that it is proposed to commemorate with an exposition at Portland in 1905. It was certainly an achievement worthy to be commemorated. It practically gave validity to the title of the United States to that great area subsequently known as the Oregon territory, from which latter was formed the whole of three states of the larger size and considerable parts of three others. It opened the way for westward development and gave us our first foothold on the Pacific.

Once a poetic figure for a vast solitude, "where rolls the Oregon" now signifies, to loyal Oregonians and northwesterners at least, a vast empire teeming with young and buoyant life, growing in population and wealth, abounding in enterprise and activity, prosperous and progressive; an empire yet in the infancy of its development, but vast in possibilities, from whose bounteous breast may be drawn the sustenance of many millions of people.

To call the world's attention to its resources is one of the prime purposes of the exposition. Like the St. Louis exposition, that at Portland is to be a glorification of territorial expansion and an expected promoter of commercial expansion as well as a developer of the section wherein it is held.

The idea of the exposition originated with the Oregon Historical society, and it speedily met the hearty approval of the Portland chamber of commerce, the board of trade and the Manufacturers' association, all of which bodies are working in harmony to make it worthy of the historic event which it is to commemorate. "Where Rolls the Oregon—The Lewis and Clark Centennial American Pacific exposition and Oriental Fair" is the ambitious and somewhat too comprehensive name of the enterprise.

Though a trifle burdensome to write, the title fairly represents the large and comprehensive spirit of the northwest. It is expected that there will participate in it primarily Pacific coast states and the commonwealth now embracing the former Oregon territory, the balance of the United States, our new islands in the Pacific and the orient, the British provinces to the north, China, Japan, Russia, Mexico, the South American republics and—well, the rest of the world.

There could be no finer site for a great interstate and international fair than Portland affords. It is at once a seaport and an inland city. Though a hundred miles from the sea, its fresh water harbor can accommodate the largest ocean going ships. Located on the Willamette river, twelve miles above its confluence with the Columbia, Portland occupies a strategic position with reference to the limitless resources of the interior and the commerce of the Pacific. It is the natural distributing point of one of the richest agricultural, mineral, fruit raising and timber and grazing sections of the American continent.

Portland has a population of something over 100,000. Many of its public and private buildings—the chamber of commerce, hotels, schools, theaters, hospitals, churches, mercantile houses and residences—would be creditable to any eastern place of 250,000. Its streets are generally well paved. It is lighted throughout with electricity and has over a hundred miles of electric street railways. Its water supply is unsurpassable and would be abundant for a population of 500,000. It comes from the everlasting glaciers of the mountains, as clear as crystal and as pure as the snows that glisten on Mount Hood and Mount St. Helen's, which stand as sentinels guarding the city.

However great and attractive the exposition may be—and no one who knows the enterprise of the northwest can have any misgiving on that point—this region presents one attraction which human ingenuity and cunning cannot hope to equal. This is Portland's unrivaled scenic setting. Magnificent panoramas of field, forest, stream and mountain greet the vision in every direction. It is, however, the snow capped peaks of Mount Hood and Mount St. Helen's that give special grandeur to the scene. There is something absolutely unique about what may be called the Oregon system of mountain peaks, beginning with Shasta, 14,440 feet high, in northern California and including the Three Sisters, 8,500; Jefferson, 9,000, and Hood, 11,200, in Oregon; St. Helen's, 9,750; Adams, 9,570, and Tacoma, 14,444, in Washington. Elsewhere, as in Switzerland or along the Canadian Pacific, snow peaks are always adjacent or tumbled together in an irregular mass, and this is the case even in the Sierra Nevada of central California. But the Cascade giants of the Oregon region, from Mount Shasta to Mount Tacoma, are all isolated peaks, separated by many miles from other peaks, with only a low range of mountains connecting them. This gives them a grandeur and individuality which is lacking in peaks that simply form parts of an irregular group.

As Joaquin Miller poetically puts it: "Here are the shining pyramids of white, starting, sudden and solitary, from the great black sea of firs, standing as supporting pillars to the dome of intense blue sky, which startle, thrill and delight you, though you have stood unmoved before the sublimest scenes on earth."

DISEASED LUNGS.

How Consumption Begins, How It Ends, How Cured.

Consumption—the most dreaded of all diseases of today—is curable. For centuries this fearful malady has stared the people in the face, with no hope, no haven of refuge, no relief to turn to, but now—science has made sufficient strides to be able to cope intelligently with all the various forms of pulmonary affections.

Few people realize what anatomical wonders the lungs are. Just imagine two great sacks, one consisting of two and the other of three lobes or compartments each made of a delicate membranous substance as light and thin as a piece of silk, expanding and contracting as we inhale and exhale the air that supplies life.

No one appreciating the work expected of them would abuse his lungs if he could look at them and see with his own eyes the effect produced. The lungs are almost like paper—mere tissues—that are susceptible to the least aggravation. A cold, though ever so slight if on the lungs, weakens them. A cough, though only occasional, means a rasping at those precious organs, a sore (result of colds and coughs) means an irritation that is hard to heal. When aggravated and it reaches an advanced stage, the lungs shrivel up and wither away. Consumption invariably begins in the upper part of the right lung.

Coughing does not always accompany diseases of this character, and consumptives sometimes go to their grave with little annoyance in this direction and little expectation. Their lungs, like an apple in the sun, simply waste away and fall to pieces. If a flower becomes lifeless and droops its head, you give it nourishment, water and sunlight. Your lungs are just like a plant, they need nourishment continually. Your blood flows through every part of them and gives them life. It soothes and heals them, keeps them fresh and healthy. If your blood possesses the right nourishment, it makes your lungs so strong that germs can't live in them, for germs only live where there is weakness. You must have proper medical assistance and you must also have sunlight, plenty of rest, plenty of out-door air and good food. The first has always been hard to get but the other requirements are within the reach of anyone. There is a medicine, a famous French compound, a remedy originated, experimented with and agreed upon by celebrated chemists from all over the world, who met in Paris a few years ago to determine the most speedy, sure and lasting way of wiping out of the world consumption and its allied diseases. This medicine is known as "Blood Wine," and it is acknowledged by physicians in New York and Boston to be the most satisfactory treatment yet devised for these troubles. "Blood Wine," will do its part—but the patient must do his to overcome pulmonary attacks. All the rules of hygiene must be strictly adhered to and if this is done a cure excepting when consumption is in the most advanced stages, will be the result. "Blood Wine" is an honest remedy. It is sold on honest representations and is guaranteed to do all claimed for it. "Blood Wine" enriches the blood and charges it with an ingredient that will kill bacilli, bacteria, microbes and germs of all kinds. It will heal upon old sores on the lungs or a new one. It will take the lameness and pains out of the lungs, and make them feel strong and comfortable. If you can't take a deep breath now, you can after using "Blood Wine."

If you hawk and spit you will stop after using it a week or so. If you take colds easily—"Blood Wine" will make you less susceptible and eventually it will give you great endurance. "Blood Wine" is not an experiment. It is an established fact, tried, proved and acknowledged to be a remarkable remedy. Throughout the hospitals, public dispensaries and in their private practice physicians are unanimous in their praises of "Blood Wine," all admit that while there are some cases too far advanced to be actually cured that it will cure in almost every instance and restore health and vitality, where every other method will fail. Dr. Brainerd A. Andrews of Beaumont, Boston, Mass., one of New England's leading practitioners, whose skill has been displayed on a number of occasions before Harvard College and other learned bodies, says: "At the best, tuberculosis is a stubborn disease and requires rigid methods to overcome. In the matter of handling it everything is being done both here and abroad to make it more easily and successfully treated, and new ideas are being advanced almost every day by men giving it their constant thought. THE MOON'S CHANGES

THEY HAVE NO INFLUENCE WHATSOEVER UPON THE WEATHER.

Some Superstitions That Still Exist Upon the Subject—Moon Theories That Are Mere Survivals From a Past Credulity.

A belief prevails that the moon's phases and changes have a controlling influence over the weather, but so great an authority as Professor C. A. Young of Princeton has assured us that the moon has absolutely nothing to do with the weather.

Such a belief is in the strict sense of the word a superstition—"mere survival from a past credulity." It is quite certain that if there is any influence at all of the sort it is extremely slight, so slight that it cannot be demonstrated with certainty, although numerous investigations have been made expressly for the purpose of detecting it. We have never been able to ascertain, for instance, with certainty whether it is warmer or not or less cloudy or not at the time of the full moon. Different investigations have led to contradictory results.

"As to the supposed connection between 'changes of the moon' and changes of the weather, it should be enough to note that even within the United States the weather changes are not simultaneous (in Kansas and Maine, for instance), as they should be if they were due to the changes of phases of the moon. Since, however, a change of the moon occurs every week, every weather change must necessarily occur within about three days and a half of lunar change, and half of them ought to fall within about forty-five hours, even if perfectly independent.

From a very remote antiquity, in the twilight of natural astrology, a belief arose that changes in the weather were occasioned by the moon. That the belief still exists is clear to any one who is acquainted with current literature and common folklore. In fact, it must be admitted that even intelligent and well informed people have been known to accept the theory.

The idea that the weather is affected by the changes in the moon is still held with great vigor in England, and one of our proverbs is, "So many days old the moon is on Michaelmas day, so many floods after." If it rains on St. Swintha's day, we are told to expect rain for forty days after. An equally wide prediction is that if Christmas comes during a waxing moon we shall have a very good year, and the nearer to the moon the better, but if during a waning moon a hard year, and the nearer the end of the moon so much the worse.

Another belief is that the condition of the weather depends upon the day of the week on which the new moon chances to fall. New moon on Monday, or moon day, is everywhere held as a sign of good weather. Friday's new moon is much disliked, while Saturday is unlucky for the new and Sunday for the full moon.

In Scotland the farmers believe that a misty moon is a misfortune, and an agricultural maxim among them teaches that

If the moon shows like a silver shield,
You need not be afraid to reap your field,
But if she rises halcyon round,
Soon we'll tread on deluged ground.

Another weather guide connected with the moon is that to see "the old moon in the arms of the new moon" is reckoned a sign of fair weather, and so is the turning up of the horns of the new moon. In this position it is supposed to retain the water which is imagined to be in it and which would run out if the horns were turned down.

The country people in Scotland foretell the changes of the weather from the changes in the appearance of the new moon. If she "lies sail on her back," it is a sure sign of bad weather, or when her horns are pointed toward the zenith.

At Whitby when the moon is surrounded by a halo with watery clouds the seamen say that there will be a change in the weather, for the "moon dogs" are about. There is also a belief prevalent among sailors and seafaring men that when a large star or planet is seen near the moon or, as they express it, "a big star is dogging the moon," this is a certain sign of stormy weather.—Exchange.

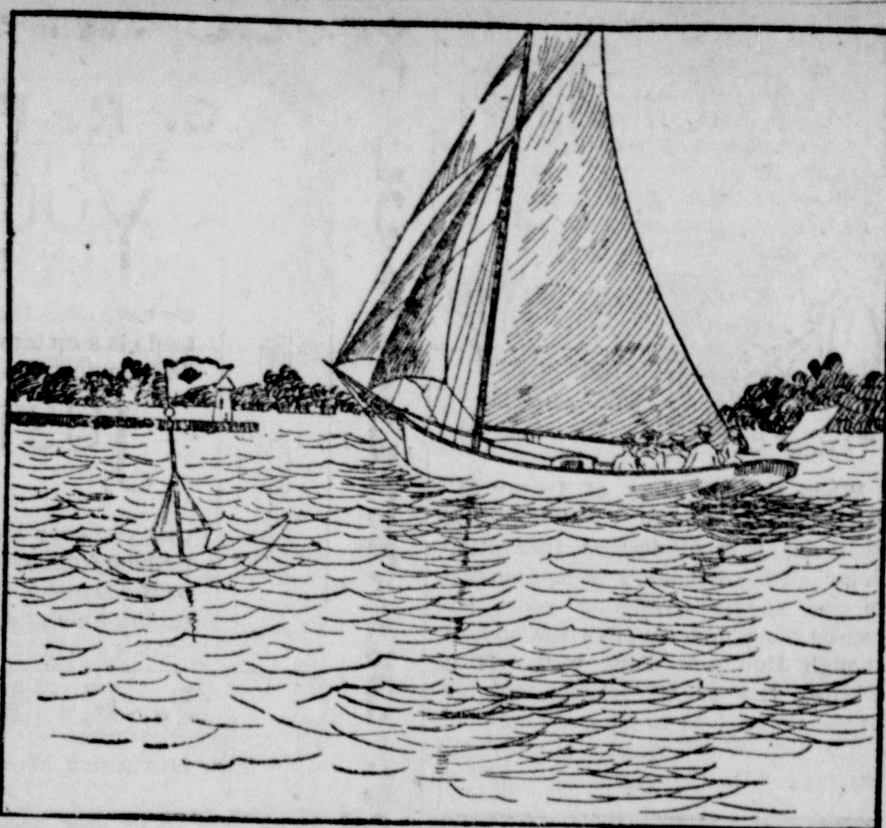

Darkness of Ocean Depths.

How far does sunlight penetrate beneath the surface of the sea? has been asked many times, and now the camera has answered the question. By exposing the most sensitive photographic plates at various depths it has been ascertained with definiteness how much sunlight there is in the water each descending foot.

There is a point at which no action of light is found, and that point is 600 feet under the surface. Below that is absolute darkness, and the only way in which the most delicate plate can be effected in that black abyss is to send down an electric light with it.

A Display of Avarice.

On the occasion of giving a concert Mme. Sala engaged Paganini at a fee of 50 guineas, says the Golden Penny. The next day she repaired to the violinist's house and handed him the sum in gold, the sight of which filled the great player with such violent emotion that he plunged his fingers among the bright pieces, which he poured over his arms and hands as though they were water. Despite this display of avarice, however, he returned the fee to Mme. Sala.

GATHMANN'S TERRORS.

Something About the Man Who Makes Monster Guns.

The Gathmann gun-cotton shell, which has just been tested by the United States government at the Sandy Hook proving grounds, has not only attracted the interest and attention of ordnance officers in this country, but all over the world as well. It is an aerial torpedo, carrying three times as much wet gun-cotton as the usual shell, and is fired with a muzzle velocity of over 2,000 feet a second, giving it ten times the range of the ordinary torpedo.

do. One can gather some idea of its size by the statement that it holds over 300 pounds of explosive matter.

Not less interesting than the shell is the great gun that was made especially to hurl it. It is forty-four feet long, has a foot and a half bore and weighs sixty tons.

The test of this gun is virtually against a modern man-of-war—armor of the thickness and density of that on the battleship Iowa. A target was erected and armored with plates of like thickness. The inventor was of the firm belief that nothing made of iron or steel could stand against the missile from this gun.

Louis Gathmann, the inventor of the gun and explosive, has long been known to army men all over the world on account of his inventions in guns and high explosives. He was born in Hanover, Germany, about fifty-eight years ago and came to America in 1865. For twenty years a successful merchant in Chicago, he retired in 1892 to devote himself to the study of astronomy and to the invention of highly destructive arms.

It is said as an inventor of ordnance Mr. Gathmann has no equal in the world. For years he has tried to interest the government in his invention, and congress last winter appropriated $50,000 to cover the expense of the trial.

Our language has a wonderful power of expression. On one occasion, we are told, a doctor of divinity rang the changes on "He that hath ears to hear let him hear." "He that is accessible to auricular vibration," said the doctor, "let him not close the gates of his tympana."

Then, again, we have that old-fashioned saying "The more the merrier" delightfully translated in this way: "Multitudinous assemblages are the most provocative of cachinnatory hilarity."

A Personal Impression.

"Did Noah only take two of each kind of animal in de ark wif 'im?" said Mr. Erastus Pinkley.

Gluttonous Bass.

"Talk about sharks," said an Orange county lake fisherman; "I don't believe they are in it for promiscuous diet with the black bass."

"I was fishing one day with a very large minnow on a big hook. I had a bite and hooked a bass. It was a big one and gave me as pretty a fight as I ever saw till it broke the leader at the point where it is attached to the line and got away."

"We fished in other parts of the lake after that and finally started to the landing, the guide rowing while I skittered with a minnow. We were passing close by the place where I had lost the fish in the morning when I saw a bass dart for my bait. I gave it time to swallow and then struck. When I got the fish into the boat, I saw a three foot leader sticking out of its mouth. It was the leader I had lost in the morning. When I cut the bass open, there was the same big chub it had taken from my line, and it came so nearly filling the fish's maw that the tail of the last minnow was sticking out of the mouth. There wasn't room for it in the interior of the bass."—New York Times.

Smoking Under Water.

Says an expert swimmer:

It looks very strange to see a man go under water with a lighted cigar in his mouth, smoke calmly at the bottom and come to the surface with the cigar burning as nicely as if he were smoking in his easy chair. Apparently he defies all natural laws, but of course he doesn't.

It is a simple trick, but it requires practice. Just as I throw myself backward to go down I flip the cigar end for end with my tongue and upper lip and get the lighted end in my mouth, closing my lips water tight around it. A little slippery elm juice gargled before going in prevents any accidental burning of the mouth. Going slowly down backward, I lie at full length on the bottom of the tank and blow smoke through the cut end of the cigar. Just as I reach the surface again another flip reverses the cigar, and there I am smoking calmly. The reversing is done so quickly that nobody notices it.

Japanese Fern Balls.

The lack of success of which some people complain in the care of fern balls is due probably to one of the following causes: Either a cheap and worthless ball was purchased or it has not been kept properly damp, says Home Notes.

It is no good to give the fern an occasional soaking and then let it get bone dry. It must be kept steadily damp. A good plan is to put up a hook over the sink in the butler's pantry and to hang it there to drain after its daily tub. The daily tub of lukewarm water is necessary for the well being of a fern ball kept in the dry air of a living room, and care should be taken to secure it a place where it will have plenty of light, but little or no sunshine. Even in the hottest weather it should not be kept out of doors, and drafts, be it remembered, will ruin it.

His Idea of a Sermon.

Robert Morris, a man celebrated for the part he took in the American Revolution, was once asked by Dr. Rush: "Well, Mr. Morris, how did you like the sermon? I have heard it highly extolled." "Why, doctor," said he, "I did not like it at all. It is too smooth and tame for me." "Mr. Morris," replied the doctor, "what sort of a sermon do you like?" "I like, sir," replied Mr. Morris, "that preaching which drives a man up into a corner of his pew and makes him think the devil is after him."

Oyster Shells.

One thousand bushels of shucked oysters leave about 1,100 bushels of shells, which accumulate in great heaps about the shucking houses. The oyster shells landed on the shores of Maryland during the last ninety years have been reckoned at 12,000,000 tons—a quantity twice sufficient to overload and sink every sailing vessel, steam vessel, barge and canalboat in America.

A HEARTY LAUGH.

The Wonderful Effects It Has Upon the Human System.

"Laugh and grow fat" is a saying as old as the hills. It has long been an accepted fact that humor is a promoter of digestion and merry words the deadliest foes of disease. Dr. J. E. Kennedy, editor of the Iowa Health Bulletin, writes an interesting article on the value of laughter, in which he shows it is not only a remedial agent, but is also a valuable preventive against a host of diseases. The physical effects of laughter are thus put down by Dr. Kennedy: Laughter increases the blood circulation.

It enlarges the heart.
It expands the lungs.
It jiggers the diaphragm.
It promotes the dioculation of the spleen.

In other words, laughter stirs up the vital regions of the body, gives them healthful exercise and produces a mental exhilaration which acts upon the system much as a brisk walk in a crisp atmosphere does upon the appetite. As strong allies to laughter Dr. Kennedy gives the following directions for mental peace of mind:

Beware of theologians who have no sense of mirth. They are not altogether human.

Keep your chin up.
Don't take your troubles to bed with you. Hang them on a chair with your trousers or drop them in a glass of water with your teeth.

Dr. Kennedy has surely hit the nail on the head. If his prescription and advice are followed, his own bills will be decidedly cut down.—Burlington Hawkeye.

Crabs and Lobsters.

There are many curious points about crabs and lobsters. Every one of either genus is provided with a big claw for crushing and a small claw adapted by its shape for cutting as scissors do. With these two claws they tear the food they capture into fragments and feed themselves literally from "hand to mouth." But there is every reason to suppose that the claws are intended quite as much for fighting as for eating purposes, inasmuch as such powerful hands are not needed for devouring the soft food they prefer.

THE MOON'S CHANGES

THEY HAVE NO INFLUENCE WHATSOEVER UPON THE WEATHER.

Some Superstitions That Still Exist Upon the Subject—Moon Theories That Are Mere Survivals From a Past Credulity.

A belief prevails that the moon's phases and changes have a controlling influence over the weather, but so great an authority as Professor C. A. Young of Princeton has assured us that the moon has absolutely nothing to do with the weather.

Such a belief is in the strict sense of the word a superstition—"mere survival from a past credulity. It is quite certain that if there is any influence at all of the sort it is extremely slight, so slight that it cannot be demonstrated with certainty, although numerous investigations have been made expressly for the purpose of detecting it. We have never been able to ascertain, for instance, with certainty whether it is warmer or not or less cloudy or not at the time of the full moon. Different investigations have led to contradictory results.

"As to the supposed connection between changes of the moon and changes of the weather, it should be enough to note that even within the United States the weather changes are not simultaneous (in Kansas and Maine, for instance), as they should be if they were due to the changes of the moon. Since, however, a change of the moon occurs every week, every weather change must necessarily occur within about three days and a half of lunar change, and half of them ought to fall within about forty-five hours, even if perfectly independent.

From a very remote antiquity, in the twilight of natural astrology, a belief arose that changes in the weather were occasioned by the moon. That the belief still exists is clear to any one who is acquainted with current literature and common folklore. In fact, it must be admitted that even intelligent and well informed people have been known to accept the theory.

The idea that the weather is affected by the changes in the moon is still held with great vigor in England, and one of our proverbs is, "So many days old the moon is on Michaelmas day, so many floods after." If it rains on St. Swin-in's day, we are told to expect rain for forty days after. An equally wide prediction is that if Christmas comes during a waxing moon we shall have a very good year, and the nearer to the moon the better, but if during a waning moon a hard year, and the nearer the end of the moon so much the worse.

Another belief is that the condition of the weather depends upon the day of the week on which the new moon chances to fall. "I like, sir," replied Mr. Morris, "that preaching which drives a man up into a corner of his pew and makes him think the devil is after him."

Oyster Shells.

One thousand bushels of shucked oysters leave about 1,100 bushels of shells, which accumulate in great heaps about the shucking houses. The oyster shells landed on the shores of Maryland during the last ninety years have been reckoned at 12,000,000 tons—a quantity twice sufficient to overload and sink every sailing vessel, steam vessel, barge and canalboat in America.

A HEARTY LAUGH.

The Wonderful Effects It Has Upon the Human System.

"Laugh and grow fat" is a saying as old as the hills. It has long been an accepted fact that humor is a promoter of digestion and merry words the deadliest foes of disease. Dr. J. E. Kennedy, editor of the Iowa Health Bulletin, writes an interesting article on the value of laughter, in which he shows it is not only a remedial agent, but also a valuable preventive against a host of diseases. The physical effects of laughter are thus put down by Dr. Kennedy: Laughter increases the blood circulation.

It enlarges the heart.
It expands the lungs.
It jiggers the diaphragm.
It promotes the diuolation of the spleen.

In other words, laughter stirs up the vital regions of the body, gives them healthful exercise and produces a mental exhilaration which acts upon the system much as a brisk walk in a crisp atmosphere does upon the appetite. As strong allies to laughter Dr. Kennedy gives the following directions for mental peace of mind:

Beware of theologians who have no sense of mirth. They are not altogether human.
Keep your chin up.

Don't take your troubles to bed with you. Hang them on a chair with your trousers or drop them in a glass of water with your teeth.

Dr. Kennedy has surely hit the nail on the head. If his prescription and advice are followed, his own bills will be decidedly cut down.—Burlington Hawkeye.

Crabs and Lobsters.

There are many curious points about crabs and lobsters. Every one of either genus is provided with a big claw for crushing and a small claw adapted by its shape for cutting as scissors do. With these two claws they tear the food they capture into fragments and feed themselves literally from "hand to mouth." But there is every reason to suppose that the claws are intended quite as much for fighting as for eating purposes, inasmuch as such powerful hands are not needed for devouring the soft food they prefer.

BROWN'S VERSION.

Desposed Pittsburg Recorder Alleges Double-Dealing on Part of Gov. Stone.

FIRST FLINNITES; THEN FRIENDS

Objects of the Governor's Opposition.
Practically Commanded A. M. Brown
Not to Remove J. O. Brown and Burleigh, Which He Did, Anyhow.

Pittsburg, Dec. 7.—Major A. M. Brown, removed as recorder by Governor Stone, has made a detailed statement to the public. It shows that Major Brown did not wish to accept the recordership appointment, but was induced to do so by his friends after Governor Stone had assured him that no outside influences were responsible for his choice. The governor at his first conference with Major Brown, in Philadelphia, assured him that if he accepted the office he was responsible to none but the citizens of Pittsburg. Stone denied all deals from the first.

After Major Brown had accepted the recordership Director J. O. Brown made him many promises, which he failed to keep. The new recorder found that he could trust neither his director of public safety nor City Solicitor Burleigh. At a conference in Pittsburg with the governor about that time the recorder was advised by Stone not to place too much confidence in either Brown or Burleigh. He even advised him to put spies on them, which A. M. Brown declined to do, saying he would watch them himself. The new recorder found the Flinn officeholders were attempting to injure his administration by Sunday law persecutions.

Had Expressed Confidence in Brown.
Up until this time Governor Stone, in his correspondence with Major Brown, had expressed the utmost confidence in his administration and disservice of the Flinn machine. It was not long, however, until a deal with Flinn became evident, and the governor began to insist that both J. O. Brown and Burleigh be retained. Stone pleaded party harmony. During the state convention, the recorder says, Stone attempted to save the machine men in the cabinet. This conference was unsatisfactory, and when Major Brown returned from the convention he found a letter from Stone. This was on Aug. 27. In this letter the governor made it plain that neither J. O. Brown nor Burleigh should be removed. Governor Stone attempted to pledge the recorder to keep the communication a secret.

Major Brown removed Brown and Burleigh and other Flinn men, in spite of Stone's attitude, and was then himself removed. The correspondence showed a tendency on the part of Stone to turn down Thomas Bigelow (who was instrumental in getting the "ripper" legislation passed), with the exception that he recommended the appointment of E. M. Bigelow as director of public works, from which position he had been ousted by the Flinn people.

Major Brown views it as somewhat extraordinary that the governor of the commonwealth should attempt to defend himself against a charge of receiving a bribe before the charge had been made.

Ban Johnson Admits It Might Result In Compromise.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—That the election of A. G. Spalding to the presidency of the National League probably would result in a compromise between the two major leagues, was admitted last night by President Ban Johnson. The developments of the past week seem to show that Spalding is a candidate for that position, in spite of previous denials, and President Johnson's statement brings unusual importance to the annual meeting of the National League, which will begin in New York on Monday.

Sandusky, O., Dec. 7.—At a meeting of the members of the Sandusky Commercial Exchange, by which the retail coal trade in this city has been controlled, it was directed to abandon the organization.

The exchange has been notified by the prosecuting attorney that if it continued business suit would be brought to oust it and to collect the penalty provided by the Valentine anti-trust law.

DECISION AGAINST MOLINEUX BY JUDGE NEWBURGER.

New York, Dec. 7.—Judge Newburger, in the court of general sessions, handed down a decision denying a motion to dismiss the indictment for murder against Roland B. Molineux. The motion was to quash the indictment or as an alternative for leave to inspect the minutes of the grand jury. Both applications were denied.

sponge Fishing.

Sponges are gathered by means of a long pole with a hook attached to the lower end, with which the sponge fisherman is very expert. He lies upon his stomach in the stern of a boat looking through an ordinary water bucket with a glass bottom, which does away with the glare from the water and allows him to survey the bottom leisurely while the boatman rows or sculls the boat. A schooner lies at anchor nearby, from which a half dozen or more of these small boats fish. It returns to port when it is loaded, or at night, as the case may be.

Eczema for Forty Years.

The Unqualified Statement of a Well Known Attorney, St. Ignace, Mich.

Some of the cures made by Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment of stubborn and long continued eczema and skin diseases are causing much comment.

People are beginning to realize that this Ointment is a wonder worker with all kinds of skin trouble. Attorney Jas. J. Brown, St. Ignace, Michigan, writes as follows:
Dr. A. W. Chase Med. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Gents:—I cannot refrain from expressing my acknowledgment for the relief I have felt from Dr. Chase's Ointment. For 40 years I was afflicted with a skin disease which was located in one spot—on my leg. I have spent at a rough estimate five hundred dollars trying to effect a cure, and not until I applied this ointment did I get relief.

You are strangers to me and this letter is prompted directly because I want to say and I feel as though I ought to say it. That Chase's Ointment has effected a complete cure of my affliction. Three boxes did the work on my leg. I was also suffering from itching piles and applied the ointment which gave the best of satisfaction by affording me rest at night and rapidly causing the disease to disappear. I have received such relief and comfort from the ointment that I cannot withhold expressing my gratitude. I was so long afflicted with the tortures of eczema. I feel now that I am cured, a word of recommendation is due from me.

Yours truly,
JAS. J. BROWN.

Convenient.

"What are marsupials?" asked the teacher, and Johnny was ready with his answer.

"Animals that have pouches in their stomachs," he said glibly.

"And for what are these pouches used?" asked the teacher, ignoring the slight inaccuracy of the answer. "I'm sure that you know that too."

"Yes'm," said Johnny, with encouraging promptness. "The pouches are for them to crawl into and conceal themselves when pursued."—Exchange.

Another Matter.

City Magistrate—Of course I don't wish to stand in the way of my daughter's happiness, but I know so little of you, Mr. Hawkins. What is your vocation?

Mr. Hawkins (airily)—Oh, I write—or—poetry, novels—or—plays and that sort of thing.

City Magistrate—Indeed! Most interesting! And how do you live?—Punch.

When the life story of Jimmy Michael appears in print, it will doubtless bear the title "Sidesteps Into Turfdom." The youngster's second venture in the saddle straddling game has roused much adverse criticism, and, although Jimmy is doing well over in France, few of his friends can reconcile themselves to his decision.

The tiny Welsh wonder is under the tutelage of the likewise diminutive Tod

Sloane, who makes up in self esteem whatever he lacks in stature. Michael is in charge of a good instructor in the art of horse piloting, and his second attempt to extract shakels from the equine world should "pan out" better than did his venture of two or three years ago.

Sloane made his first duty that of correcting Jimmy's seat. The cyclist had accustomed himself to sitting well back and fairly straight in the saddle, after the manner of English jockeys. Tod's peculiar style is known to horsemen everywhere and by reason of its success has partially revolutionized riding. He is drilling his mode into Jimmy, who now crouches on his mount's neck, riding with stirrup straps as short as possible.

Jimmy will lose none of his popularity so long as he continues his imitation of Tod to horsemanship, but let us hope he will not duplicate the latter's high heeled French boots, flaming scarlet scarfs and waffle iron waistcoats.

Automobilists have nearly all entered the racing end of the sport. The man who uses an auto entirely for milder forms of pleasure is a comparatively rare specimen of the genus chauffeur. And the racers themselves are also divided. Road and track racing each have a corps of admirers. While votaries of the former branch often speed their machines on inclosed courses, and vice versa, the two divisions have many points of difference.

Road racing is undoubtedly the most enjoyable sort of auto speeding. The rapidly changing landscapes, the clear, crisp atmosphere and attending excitement tend to disperse troubles and all thought of self.

The accompanying picture shows a racing automobile in full flight over a hilly road. In the machine are George Stackhouse, a well known New York newspaper man, together with an official of the Automobile Club of America. Both are enthusiastic motor carlage devotees.

Terry McGovern was at the race track recently, and a man came to him with a story of a good thing. He argued with Terry forty minutes, and Terry finally sent a friend down to look at the nag. Hearing that the beast looked fit and fine, Terry pulled out a roll eight inches thick, skinned off a dollar and asked his friend to put it on the animal to show provided the odds to win were not less than 15 to 1.

"Grandpa" Anson has arranged a new scheme to worry J. A. Hart, who caused the "old man" to depart from the Chicago team. His game is to plant a team on the west side, to be a member of the Western league. What halts the deal, however, is the fact that Anson thinks his name so grand a card that he ought to have 50 per cent of the plunder without risking a cent of his own. This makes the other promoters feel dubious.

"Uncle" Anson's glee over the idea is undiluted. To settle on the west side with a club which, if it plays good ball, will take away some of Jim Hart's trade seems to him intensely enjoyable. He is already figuring on a fine team and thinks the old stand, where two flags were won, will be the only location.

"The Belle of New York."

"The Belle of New York" is about to be revived in London by the company that appeared there in the failure of "The Whirl of the Town." Madge Lessing will take Edna May's place as the Salvation Army lassie, Elsie Fay will be the Bowery girl, and James E. Sullivan and Frank Lawton will have the roles which they introduced in that city.

I have spent at a rough estimate five hundred dollars trying to effect a cure, and not until I applied this ointment did I get relief. You are strangers to me and this letter is prompted directly because I want to say and I feel as though I ought to say it. That Chase's Ointment has effected a complete cure of my affliction. Three boxes did the work on my leg. I was also suffering from itching piles and applied the ointment which gave the best of satisfaction by affording me rest at night and rapidly causing the disease to disappear. I have received such relief and comfort from the ointment that I cannot withhold expressing my gratitude. I was so long afflicted with the tortures of eczema. I feel now that I am cured, a word of recommendation is due from me.

Yours truly,
JAS. J. BROWN.

Convenient.

"What are marsupials?" asked the teacher, and Johnny was ready with his answer.

"Animals that have pouches in their stomachs," he said glibly.

"And for what are these pouches used?" asked the teacher, ignoring the slight inaccuracy of the answer. "I'm sure that you know that too."

"Yes'm," said Johnny, with encouraging promptness. "The pouches are for them to crawl into and conceal themselves when pursued."—Exchange.

Another Matter.

City Magistrate—Of course I don't wish to stand in the way of my daughter's happiness, but I know so little of you, Mr. Hawkins. What is your vocation?

Mr. Hawkins (nirly)—Oh, I write—er—poetry, novels—er—plays and that sort of thing.

City Magistrate—Indeed! Most interesting! And how do you live?—Punch.

When the life story of Jimmy Michael appears in print, it will doubtless bear the title "Sidesteps Into Turfdom." The youngster's second venture in the saddle straddling game has roused much adverse criticism, and, although Jimmy is doing well over in France, few of his friends can reconcile themselves to his decision.

The tiny Welsh wonder is under the tutelage of the likewise diminutive Tod

Sloane, who makes up in self esteem whatever he lacks in stature. Michael is in charge of a good instructor in the art of horse piloting, and his second attempt to extract shekels from the equine world should "pan out" better than did his venture of two or three years ago.

Sloane made his first duty that of correcting Jimmy's seat. The cyclist had accustomed himself to sitting well back and fairly straight in the saddle, after the manner of English jockeys. Tod's peculiar style is known to horsemen everywhere and by reason of its success has partially revolutionized riding. He is drilling his mode into Jimmy, who now crouches on his mount's neck, riding with stirrup straps as short as possible.

Jimmy will lose none of his popularity so long as he confines his imitation of Tod to horsemanship, but let us hope he will not duplicate the latter's high heeled French boots, flaming scarlet scarfs and waffle iron waistcoats.

Automobilists have nearly all entered the racing end of the sport. The man who uses an auto entirely for milder forms of pleasure is a comparatively rare specimen of the genus chauffeur. And the racers themselves are also divided. Road and track racing each have a corps of admirers. While votaries of the former branch often speed their machines on enclosed courses, and vice versa, the two divisions have many points of difference.

Road racing is undoubtedly the most enjoyable sort of auto speeding. The rapidly changing landscapes, the clear, crisp atmosphere and attending excitement tend to disperse troubles and all thought of self.

The accompanying picture shows a racing automobile in full flight over a hilly road. In the machine are George Stackhouse, a well known New York newspaper man, together with an official of the Automobile Club of America. Both are enthusiastic motor car race devotees.

Terry McGovern was at the race track recently, and a man came to him with a story of a good thing. He argued with Terry forty minutes, and Terry finally sent a friend down to look at the nag. Hearing that the beast looked fit and fine, Terry pulled out a roll eight inches thick, skinned off a dollar and asked his friend to put it on the animal to show provided the odds to win were not less than 15 to 1.

"Grandpa" Anson has arranged a new scheme to worry J. A. Hart, who caused the "old man" to depart from the Chicago team. His game is to plant a team on the west side, to be a member of the Western league. What halts the deal, however, is the fact that Anson thinks his name so grand a card that he ought to have 50 per cent of the plunder without risking a cent of his own. This makes the other promoters feel dubious.

"Uncle" Anson's glee over the idea is undiluted. To settle on the west side with a club which, if it plays good ball, will take away some of Jim Hart's trade seems to him intensely enjoyable. He is already figuring on a fine team and thinks the old stand, where two flags were won, will be the only location.

"The Belle of New York."

"The Belle of New York" is about to be revived in London by the company that appeared there in the failure of "The Whirl of the Town." Madge Lessing will take Edna May's place as the Salvation Army lassie. Elsie Fay will be the Bowery girl, and James E. Sullivan and Frank Lawton will have the roles which they introduced in that city.
